Daugherty Files Suit To Stop Investigation

PROTECTION IS SOUGHT IN COURT

Ex-Attorney General Says Senate Probe Without Legal Authority

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Protection from further investigation by the Wheeler-Brookhart committee of the Senate was sought today by former Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty in a suit filed in the District of Columbia supreme court.

Daugherty asked the court to declare that the committee had no authority to investigate allegations that he had failed to prosecute violators of the Sherman anti-trust law and the Clayton trade restraint act.

Made Defendants
He also asked that the telegraph companies be restrained from presenting to the committee copies of telegrams filed by him during the past three years. Defendants named were Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana; Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, the leaders in the investigation, all other members of the Senate committee and David S. Barry, sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, were named as defendants by Daugherty.

BONUS BILL NOW UP TO COOLIDGE

Congress Sends Measure to President for Veto Or Signature

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The new soldiers' bonus bill, providing paid-up insurance policies for about 4,000,000 veterans of the world war, finally got through Congress today and is now ready for President Coolidge to either approve or veto.

The conference report on the bill was accepted this afternoon by the House twenty-four hours after it was approved by the Senate.

Pacific Southwest Bank Considers Construction Of Fine Building Here

A large, modern bank building on one of four prominent Glendale corners is contemplated by the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings Bank.

The locations under consideration are the southwest corner of Brand boulevard and Harvard street, the northeast corner of Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue, the northwest corner of Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue, and the southwest corner of Broadway and Orange street.

High officials of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank admitted this morning to a reporter of The Glendale Evening

Arrange to Take Coolidge Voters To Polls Tuesday

The primary election takes place next Tuesday, May 6, and the Glendale Coolidge for President club, of which W. E. Evans is the head, is completing arrangements to get the voters to the polls. Any Coolidge voters who wish to be taken to the polls next Tuesday are invited to telephone Glendale 3583 and he or she will be taken to the proper voting place and home.

Work on Tunnel to Connect Glendale With L. A. Started

Steam shovels began work today moving dirt at the portal of the new Pacific Electric tunnel at Lucas street, Los Angeles, to connect Glendale and Los Angeles. Twohy Brothers, Portland firm, has the contract. Mayor Cryer and Pacific Electric officials were scheduled to attend the opening ceremonies. W. R. Fontaine, Los Angeles consulting engineer, will be associated with Twohy Brothers in the project. Fontaine was formerly operating on the First street tunnel, where he was associated with Chief Engineer Hood of the Southern Pacific.

DRIVE FOR FUNDS NEARS ITS GOAL

Hurricane Finish Planned to Reach $50,000 Mark In Tomorrow's Work

The $50,000 advertising fund drive has reached the total of $47,000, Chairman M. Walters of the Chamber of Commerce says, and means committee reports, and may be counted on to go over the top tomorrow, with the final impetus of the "Glendale 100,000 Club" button sale in the morning and the Kiwanis-Exchange baseball game in the afternoon.

The committee comprising F. P. Newport, A. R. Eastman and Roy L. Kent produced over $2000 in Los Angeles yesterday, while local workers further swelled the total.

"Slowly but surely the drive barometer is rising to the victory mark," says Mr. Walters. "We want just two things more. We want every man, woman and child in Glendale to buy a button at $1 each, and we want the entire population of the city to show up at that baseball game. With that kind of support nothing can stop us."

MANY UNDER ARREST

WARSAW, May 2.—Two hundred arrests have been made with in the past twenty-four hours as a result of May day demonstrations.

NO DEMONSTRATIONS

MADRID, May 2.—May day passed quietly in Madrid. The city was quiet as Sunday, with only a few vehicles in the streets.

PLAN HONOR IN MEMORY OF DEAD

General Committee Members Hold First Meeting to Discuss Program

The first meeting of the general committee in charge of the arrangements for the observance of Memorial Day on May 30 was held last night at the Wilson avenue school.

T. M. Barrett, past commander of the N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., presided. The following representatives of the various Glendale organizations were present: Colonel J. D. Fraser, Spanish-American War Veterans and Scouts; R. E. Tucker, Community Service; Francis Gordon and Leslie S. Hoagland, Forest Lawn; W. J. Horstman, American Legion; Mrs. Nellie Snow Hyer, American Legion Auxiliary and War Mothers; Mary B. Bennett and Lenna M. Skeits, Women's Relief Corps; T. C. Fuller and Robert Taylor, G. A. R.; W. H. Adams, American Legion and general committee of Burbank; Richardson D. White, city schools, and E. E. McWain, adjutant of the American Legion, who was elected secretary of the general committee.

Services at Forest Lawn
It was decided to hold the G. A. R. Memorial Day services at Grand View cemetery, at 11 a. m., in cooperation with the committee of Burbank. The main services will be held at Forest Lawn at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, following a parade at 2 o'clock. Colonel J. D. Fraser will act as marshal of the day and E. E. McWain as adjutant.

The following were appointed as members of the transportation committee: A. L. Baird, chairman; J. Herbert Smith, R. E. Johnston, and a representative of the Elks club yet to be named. Richardson D. White was appointed chairman of the publicity committee, and E. Ernest Tucker, chairman of the committee on program and music. Comrade Taylor of the G. A. R. will have charge of the decoration of graves, assisted by girls from the local schools.

The complete program will be arranged at a later meeting, to be held at the call of the chairman.

PRESIDENT WILL ACCEPT JAP BAN

Exclusion Must Be Enforced In Courteous Fashion, Coolidge Fashions

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Strong indications that President Coolidge will accept the new immigration bill with the Japanese exclusion provision, came from the White House late today.

It was stated officially that the president is in favor of exclusion, but wants it accepted in the most courteous way possible.

Efforts are now being made in Congress to take the "stink" out of the legislation in accordance with the president's wishes.

Daisy Chain Bearers Are Named at Vassar

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 2.—Twenty-four young women of Vassar college were hailed today as the prettiest members of the Sophomore class, following their selection as bearers of the daisy chain at the annual commencement exercises. Those selected included Deborah Sexby, Long Beach, Cal.

Policemen Will Have Two Weeks Vacation

All police officers who have been on the local force for a period of one year were notified by Chief Fraser that they are entitled to two weeks' vacation with pay.

Kiwanis Flyer to Drop Baseball to White Sox Captain

H. Reeve Darling, aviator and member of the Kiwanis club, announced today that he would fly over the White Sox ball park tomorrow just before the Kiwanis-Exchange benefit ball game, and drop a baseball, which Carl Sawyer, captain of the White Sox, will attempt to catch in a regulation catcher's mitt. The ball will be autographed by the presidents of the two clubs, as well as by Jess Willard and Jim Jeffries, former heavy-weight champions, and will become a trophy for the winning team.

STRUGGLE LOOMS ON BUS PERMITS

P. E. Claims City Is Without Power to Impose Tax Of $10 Quarterly

Glendale city officials are in the dark as to what action is contemplated locally by the Pacific Electric Railway company regarding the permit granted it by the City Council to operate motor buses on the city streets, following word received this morning from Santa Ana that the city officials there and the railway company were at loggerheads over the payment of the municipal license.

According to advices received from Santa Ana, a permit was transferred the Pacific Electric Land company, a subsidiary of the railway company, to operate buses in that city. After the permit was approved on both sides and the buses placed in operation, it is charged that the land company transferred the holdings back to the railway company—and the latter refused to pay the license, claiming that as a common carrier they were under the jurisdiction of the State Railroad commission, and not subject to the city's license ordinance.

A. J. Van Wie, city clerk, stated this morning that of the six buses operated by the Pacific Electric in Glendale, only one had ever been operated by the land company. This had been transferred some time ago to the railway company. The other five were originally operated by the railway company.

The license on each bus, $10 per quarter, payable in advance, is paid up to July 1. Both of the 1924 payments, he states, have been made under protest, the railway company claiming that the city officials are not authorized to require them to have occupied in Santa Ana—that is, that the city of Glendale has no right to tax their buses.

Claim City Control
The city, said Mr. Van Wie, takes the stand that the State Railroad Commission has jurisdiction only over carriers between common points, and that the city has control over buses operating solely within the city limits.

Ulster Mobilizing In Boundary Fight

DUBLIN, May 2.—Ulster is preparing for the mobilization of 25,000 constabulary (military police), according to a report received here today. Although no order has yet gone out from Belfast for mobilization, it is said the Belfast government is recalling ex-soldiers for military service. The Irish war clouds arose from the boundary dispute between the Free State and Ulster province.

Rev. C. A. Cole May Undergo Operation To Relieve Abscess

Rev. Clifford A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church, is reported very low at his home, 132 South Kenwood street. Mr. Cole is suffering with an abscess in his head and attending physicians are debating on the advisability of operating in an effort to give relief.

BALL TEAMS READY FOR CONTEST

Kiwanians and Rotarians All Set for Tussle to Boost Fund

On the eve of the great battle of centuries, the captains of the two teams today declared their players were in the pink of condition and eagerly await the fray tomorrow afternoon when the Kiwanis club ball players meet the Exchange club team at White Sox park on San Fernando road in a benefit game.

The contest will be the first of a series of three games to be played by these two teams to decide the city's championship, to say nothing of a possible claim of larger territory. The proceeds from the game will be donated to the $50,000 advertising fund now being raised by the Chamber of Commerce.

Two Ex-Champs

The world's series should not attract any larger crowd than is expected to be on hand tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when Jess Willard and Jim Jeffries, two former heavyweight champs of the world, will jointly call "Play Ball."

Willard and Jeffries have agreed to be present and officiate as umpires for the most important early-season game. Needless to say, all arguments over balls and strikes and base running will be short, for the reputation of these two former title holders has not been forgotten.

The members of the Exchange club worked out yesterday afternoon under the direction of President "Bob" Johnston and Captain C. R. Hull. Slight defects

LIFT QUARANTINE FROM 4 COUNTIES

Federal Bureau Orders Ban Removed In Fight on Cattle Scourge

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The federal government, under orders issued by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, today lifted the hoof and mouth disease quarantine from Marin, San Mateo, Santa Clara and Sonoma counties, California. The quarantine went into effect on February 23.

Restrictions were also lifted on parts of the counties of Napa, Solano and San Joaquin, while the counties of Alameda, Kern, Los Angeles, Mariposa, Merced, Madera, San Joaquin and Stanislaus were placed in a "modified area."

Three Drown as Car Hurdles Drawbridge

SEATTLE, May 2.—Four persons are dead here today as the result of automobile accidents late yesterday. Three men were drowned, and another rescued when their automobile, said to be traveling at a high rate of speed, plunged through an open drawbridge into the Duwamish river and sank in twenty-two feet of water.

The dead are Steve Brown, his son, Frank Brown, 14, and Tom Blankley, 27. August Brown, 19, was rescued. The men were returning home from work when the accident occurred. Mrs. Louise J. Belanger died in the city hospital early today as the result of injuries suffered when the car in which she was riding crashed into a telephone pole late last night.

COME TO DEADLOCK

CHICAGO, May 2.—Negotiations between the firemen and engineers and the western railroads over a new wage scale had come to a deadlock over the working rules, it was reported today.

QUARANTINE THREAT BY OFFICERS

People Must Follow Out All of Regulations, Is Federal Warning

An ultimatum was this morning served on V. B. Stone, city manager, and Chief of Police John D. Fraser, by the federal quarantine law enforcement officers in charge of this district, that unless more drastic steps were taken to compel the people of Glendale to conform with the quarantine regulations to prevent the spread of the foot and mouth disease, the city would be placed under quarantine at once.

Quarantine of the city would mean, the federal officers stated, the establishment of disinfection stations at all boundaries and would be a cause of great inconvenience to all concerned.

Several of the federal and state officers visited Glendale yesterday afternoon and ran directly into several cases where the law was being openly violated. After a conference at the federal headquarters in Los Angeles last night they decided to give the citizens of Glendale an opportunity to comply with the law before taking more stringent means to insure its enforcement.

In Conference Here

Dr. Charles H. Reid, in charge of the district which includes Glendale; Dr. H. M. Adamson and N. C. Bernard, special quarantine law enforcement officer, had a long conference with the city manager and the chief of police this morning.

"The law is very clear on the point," stated Dr. Reid, "and with the whole power of the federal government behind it, if an appeal to the people fails, we must compel obedience."

The following pertinent facts were pointed out for the guidance of Glendale citizens:

- 1 Any person found transporting a dog in an automobile without a permit is liable to a fine of $300 or imprisonment for six months, or both, on conviction. This applies to the transportation within the city limits as well as from one town to another.
- 2 All cloven hoof animals must be kept in an inclosure. This means that no one may stake out a cow or a goat, even on his own premises. The animal in question must be kept in a corral or barn. Dogs are allowed leeway of private premises, provided the animal is chained.
- 3 Especial care should be taken to prevent pigeons or chickens from leaving home. Rabbits also should be kept in a pen.
- 4 It is strictly against the law to lead a dog along the street, even on a leash.
- 5 Cats should be kept on private premises.

"In the face of this ultimatum," said Chief Fraser this morning, "I have no option. I will instruct my officers to destroy all dogs running loose in the city. This will apply to other pet animals. The staking out of cows on vacant lots will have to cease."

The law provides that all dogs should be killed and does not provide that we hold them a certain length of time before killing them. It is up to every dog owner in the city to see that the law is strictly complied with.

Full information regarding the quarantine regulations may be obtained from the city health office at the corner of Los Feliz road and Brand boulevard. This office, however, does not have the authority to issue permits for the transportation of animals, which must be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce building in Lankershim.

Church Urges Action On World Court Plan

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 2.—A resolution requesting action on the world court plans of the late President Warren G. Harding was adopted by the Methodist General conference here today. The resolution was introduced by Judge Henry W. Rogers of New York. Copies of the resolution, which points to more than a year of congressional inaction, will be sent to President Coolidge and Senator Lodge.

Expect Orders to Modify Quarantine In Infected Areas

SACRAMENTO, May 2.—An order from Secretary of Agriculture Wallace modifying quarantine on California counties where the hoof-and-mouth disease is prevalent, was expected at the state department of agriculture today. Wallace is understood to have agreed to modify county bans so that only the area actually infected will be under rigid quarantine, the balance of the various counties to be left free.

U. G. Houck, director of the federal forces fighting the live stock disease, issued instructions to his inspectors today that quarantine regulations must not interfere with the voting at the May primary.

In his bulletin to the inspectors, Houck said: "If any of the voters on the premises under quarantine desire to vote at the primaries, please arrange to have them properly disinfected, taken to the polls and returned immediately to their premises."

REVOLUTION NEAR, PRESIDENT TOLD

Puts Ban on Sending of Munitions Except to Cuban Government

WASHINGTON, May 2.—President Coolidge today placed an embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunition from the United States to Cuba, where a revolution is expected momentarily.

The embargo was requested by the Cuban government in a note to the state department.

The fear was expressed by Cuban officials that large quantities of arms, now stored along the Florida coast, were to be smuggled into Cuba or shipped openly.

The president's proclamation establishing the embargo will not prohibit the sale of arms by the war department to the Cuban government.

President Zayas of Cuba has already asked the United States to sell him several hundred thousand dollars' worth of arms and ammunition. This order will be filled, but no other shipments will be permitted to rebel factions in Cuba.

Plans are under way for the swearing in of forty special deputies in order to prevent possible violence.

INSURGENTS SCORE IN TAX BATTLE

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The administration lost another round today in the tax reduction battle in the Senate. Democratic and insurgent forces rejected by a vote of 37 to 36 an amendment recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, limiting deductions from net income derived from tax exempt securities. Under this provision deductions from net incomes for interest on money borrowed for other than business purposes and for non-business losses, such as in the sale of securities, would have been limited to the amount such interest and losses exceeded earnings of the taxpayer from tax exempt securities.

FAIL TO GET ANY TRACE OF LOST AVIATOR

Three Planes Get Orders To Continue Journey; Search Goes On

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The American round-the-world airplane flight will be continued without the leadership of Major Frederick L. Martin, it was announced at the war department today. A telegram was dispatched to Lieutenant Lowell Smith, second in command, to proceed with the three planes on the flight from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, whenever he is ready, and to disregard Martin.

No word has come to the air service up to late this afternoon concerning the whereabouts of Major Martin. Lieutenant Bissell, advance officer, was ordered to stay behind at Unalaska to continue the search for Martin while the other three planes, piloted by Lieutenants Smith, Nelson and Wade, will probably hop off tomorrow for Naisan, in the Aleutian islands, their next lap.

These three planes have been ready to proceed for about ten days and have been held up by Martin's various accidents.

Good Weather Aids In Search for Lost Flyer

SEATTLE, May 2.—Favorable weather is speeding the far-flung search of Alaskan waters for Major Frederick L. Martin, missing commander of the American army round-the-world flight, advices received at the United States naval radio station at Bremerton this afternoon stated.

Vessels were expected to reach his most likely position late this afternoon, the advices stated. The favorable turn of the weather has encouraged the searchers who believe Major Martin and his mechanic to be safe.

Chignik advices stated that Major Martin has with him matches and emergency rations which will sustain the two men if necessary for several weeks.

The searchers, the messages picked up here said, were proceeding on the theory that the flyer was forced down within an hour after he left Chignik.

have been wintering with Mr. and Mrs. R. Roberts of 410 West
Maple avenue, left by automobile
Thursday, en route to their home.
They are making the trip through Stanford university. They also spent a few days in San Francisco, Oakland and other northern points.

Mrs. J. B. McClellan and daughter, Miss Annabel McClellan of 126 North Central avenue, accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Main and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Main of Los Angeles, just recently returned from an enjoyable week's motor trip north. They visited Thomas McClellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. McClellan who is attending Stanford university. They also spent a few days in San Francisco, Oakland and other northern points.

MRS. SARAH OLMSTED
Mrs. Sarah Olmsted died Thursday, May 1, 1924, at her home, 629 East Orange Grove avenue, at the age of 82 years. She had lived in Glendale fourteen years.

Surviving her are a son, Robert
E. Olmsted, and a daughter, Mrs.
Charles H. Morse, both of Glendale.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the L. G.
Sovereign chapel on South Brand boulevard with Rev. Philip K.
Kemp officiating. Interment took place in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

MRS. LILLIAN WHITE
The many friends of Mrs. Lillian White, a former resident of Glendale, will be grieved to learn of her death last Tuesday, April 29, 1924, at her home in Glassell
Park.

The deceased is the mother of Corwin Lance of 1010 East Elk street, Bert Lance of Los Angeles and Mrs. Julia Goble of Los Angeles.

She is also survived by four grandchildren, James and Evelyn Lance, children of Mr. and Mrs.
Corwin Lance of Glendale, Lawrence Lance, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Bert Lance of Los Angeles, and Glenver Goble, son of Mrs. Julia Goble.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Brown Chapel on Flower street, Los Angeles. Interment was made at Grand View cemetery.

SOCIAL EVENT

Honor Mothers

Charming in all its appointments and delightfully informal in every respect was the May day luncheon yesterday at the home of Mrs. Thos. G. McDougall, 128 West Elk avenue, hostess for chapter C. J. P. E. O., at their annual celebration of "Mothers' day."

Assisting hostesses were Mesdames Roy L. Kent, Julian Hayward and Miss Grace Crampton.
The May day motif was carried out prettily in the decorations, Cecel Brunner roses being used in tasteful profusion. The favors were dainty nosegays of flowers in pastel shades.

Mrs. Harriet Hamilton was chairman of a short program following the delicious course lunchon at which forty were served.

Especially appropriate to the occasion were vocal selections:
"Mother o' Mine" and "Sing Me to Sleep," by Mrs. Noble J. Ripley, with accompaniment played by Mrs. Wayne Smith. Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb played two classical numbers on the piano.

Mrs. Roy J. Hinchcliff read a bit of interesting history relative to the adoption of the observance of "Mothers' day" and the part the "power of motherhood" played in the world in ancient times.

An interesting paper on "The Native Trees of California" was read by Miss Jeannette Herrick, closing with the widely loved poem, "A Tree." In response to a special request Mrs. Ripley favored the guests with a rendition of the song, in which the poem has increased in charm.

Guests invited to share this Mothers' day were: Mrs. Alex
Moir of Los Angeles, Mesdames
Mary Alice Barry, J. Ray Bentley,
Nevada Chapman Erb, W. T.
Elliott, Nellie J. Ayars, M. E. Paterson, Della L. Cory, R. A. Blackburn, Martha Herrick, C. W.
Spickerman, Mabelle Burnham, A.
B. Morrison, E. L. Downing, C. C.
Carroll, Noble J. Ripley, Wayne
Smith, Sallie Campbell Braden,
John W. Sharpe, Misses Corinne Orff, Katherine V. Sinks.

Mrs. J. L. Onstott, president of the chapter, presided at the business meeting preceding the luncheon.

Dance Tonight

The formal dance to be given tonight by the Girls' Friendly Society of St. Mark's Episcopal church at the Tuesday Afternoon Club ballroom promises to be one of the most successful and enjoyable affairs planned this year by the society.

The music for the dancing will be furnished by the Scots popular orchestra. The president of the society, Miss Grace Crampton, will lead the grand march at 8 o'clock.

Favor dances, prize dances and other special features will be presented during the evening. It is announced by the dance committee, the Misses Bena Jensen, Marie Powers and Esther Veitch.

Hostesses for the affair will be Mesdames Cory and Ernest Parker.
Admission tickets may be secured at the door. The proceeds of the affair are to be applied toward the general fund.

Entertains Club

Members of the Rodaire club were entertained last Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Herman Psenner, 218 North Central avenue, when they met for their regular weekly social meeting.

A pink and white color scheme was artistically carried out with arrangements of spring flowers.
The evening was devoted to sewing and an informal social hour when a two-course luncheon was served.

Those present were Misses Henrietta Meek, Eva Brehme, Zilda Cross and Mesdames Ray Ellen Robert, Godard, Paul McCowan,
James McCowan, and the hostess,
Mrs. Herman Psenner.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Eva Brehme, 806 South Maryland avenue,
Wednesday night, May 7.

State Convention

Glendale club women whose organizations belong to the California Federation of Women's Clubs are looking forward eagerly to the twenty-third annual state convention Friday and Saturday, May 30 and 31, in Pasadena.

Mrs. John C. Urquhart, state president, will preside and the sessions Friday and Saturday morning and afternoon will be held in the First Congregational church, and the session Saturday night in the Shakespeare club house.

The program is in charge of Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer, Mrs.
Seward A. Simons and Miss Gertrude Brainerd.

Any woman in Glendale eligible for membership in the organization is invited to attend.

Talk Informally

Informal talks on Boy and Girl Scout movements were features of the meeting of the Colorado Street Parent-Teachers' association held Thursday afternoon at the school.

Harvey B. Cheesman, chief executive of the Verdugo Hills Boy Scout council, spoke of the Boy Scouts, explaining the Scout oath, and many details in connection with the troop regulations. He also talked of the plans for the summer camp, on which the attention of the council is centered at present.

Miss Gladys Sharpe, captain of Troop One of the Glendale Girl Scouts, gave a short talk on activities of the Girl Scouts.

The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. S. L. Gillan, in the chair. The flag salute was led by Miss Louise Fambrough, patriotic chairman.

Echoes from the recent convention of the First District Federation held in Los Angeles, were given by Mrs. E. S. McKee and Mrs. Mary McLain, who were among the delegates representing Colorado Street P-T. A.

Following the announcement in regard to the coming convention of the state Federation to be held in Pasadena, credentials were taken by the following members who will attend: Mesdames Harry Reed, Harry Saulsbury, Mary McLain, E. S. McKee, Redmond, Gaulrapp, Archer, Collier, Rudolph, Gillan and Baruch.

Members of a nominating committee, appointed to report at the next meeting when the annual election of officers will take place, were Miss Ida M. Waite, chairman; Mrs. E. S. McKee and Mrs. S. L. Gillan.

All standing committees were requested to prepare reports on the year's work to be presented at the next meeting.

A note from Mrs. Lorne Schlitz-hauer, nee Miss Bessie Ross, was read, expressing her appreciation of the wedding present received recently from the organization.

Announcement was made of an entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Fathers' Auxiliary of Colorado Street P-T. A.
at the Harvard Street High school, on the night of May 23, for the benefit of the P-T. A. fund.

Miss Ida M. Waite made an announcement regarding the program of entertainment to be presented during Chautauqua week.

At the next meeting the graduating class will be guests of honor and will present the program.

The room count was won by the sixth grade of which Mrs. Lorne Schlitzhauer is teacher.

Tea and wafers were served by the hospitality committee, and the meeting closed with practice singing of the P-T. A. song.

'SAY LISTEN' IS PRESENTED WITH BRILLIANT CAST

Clever Musical Comedy Wins Generous Praise for Snap and Sparkle

By RUTH SPAFFORD
Of The Evening News Staff.
"Say Listen," the three-act play presented last night before an enthusiastic audience at the Broadway High school, revealed itself as a clever bit of comedy. That many appreciative friends and admirers were in the auditorium was attested by the applause given at the close of each act.

The action of the play takes

Cat Lovers to Hold Benefit Bridge Meet

The latest innovation in Glendale social affairs is a bridge and five-hundred party for Glendale's prize pussies. However, it is said there will be nothing feline about the affair for it is simply to be a benefit for the Glendale Cat club Monday night, May 5, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hendrickson at 5414 Meridian street, near York boulevard and North Avenue Fifty-four.

SEEKS NAVY PROBE

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Congressional investigation of the navy, described by Vice-Admiral Cointz as not up to the 5-5-3 standard laid down in the arms conference treaties, was proposed in a resolution introduced in the House by Representative Britten, Republican, of Illinois. It would be conducted by the naval affairs committee.

J. KORN RECALLS EARLY DAYS ERE CITY WAS KNOWN

Local Business Man Visited Glendale First Away Back in 1895

In 1887, when Glendale was not a word to conjure with and Los Angeles itself was but a sleepy little pueblo of 40,000 people, J. Korn, tailor, of 221 South Brand boulevard, came to town. He found the metropolis bounded on the north by First street, on the south by Fifth street, on the east by Spring street and on the west by Hill street.

SEELIG'S SIXTH GLENDALE STORE TO BE LAUNCHED

Formal Opening of Latest Branch on N. Brand Scheduled Today

Sam Seelig's sixth Glendale store, the fifth to be established during the past twelve months, will be formally thrown open to the public tonight at 7 o'clock. It is located at 329 North Brand boulevard, and, in addition to being one of the largest, is the most up-to-date of all Seelig stores in southern California.

Graham Crackers

By F. A. GRAHAM

We may be mistaken, but from here it looks like the Democrats are all riding the G. O. P. elephant.

Harry Sinclair can make a good living touring and lecturing on "The wonders of Europe during troublous times in America."

"You can fool some of the people all the time, but—etc." Proving that at least one man was right and president, too.

Some call it turmoil, but no doubt Mr. Coolidge will refer to it as his first term oil.

In that Montana team the senator seems to be the off-Wheeler.

"Scofflaw" was coined to apply to liquor, but oil is doing its best to break into the society.

Moscow radicals denounced this country and said "the U. S. does not know where to spend all its money, yet it reaches out for more."

Advocates of a third party should remember the old adage: "Two are company, three is a crowd."

VARIED PROGRAM ON SCHEDULE AT K. C. CONVENTION

Entertainment Features to Lighten Sessions at Pasadena Meet

Not all will be business with the 2,000 or more Knights of Columbus who are to assemble in Pasadena, beginning Sunday, May 4, for their twenty-second annual state convention. An extensive program of entertainment has been arranged by Pasadena Council, No. 1174, which is to be host to the convention.

A large delegation of Glendale Knights are to participate in every event of the convention, so, of course, the plans are of great interest here.

Pictures of Mass

Announcement was made in yesterday's edition of The Glendale Evening News of the big parade Sunday morning which will form the procession to Tournament park, where a military field mass will be said. The first motion pictures ever taken of celebration of a Catholic mass are to be taken at this assembly. At least 15,000 people are expected to attend. Included in this company will be over 1,000 sailors from the Pacific fleet, and 7,000 or more Knights and friends.

Sunday afternoon there will be an exemplification of the major degrees in the hall of the Pasadena council, and also a baseball game between Glendale and Hollywood teams.

The convention proper will begin Monday, with a memorial mass of requiem at 10 o'clock at St. Andrew's church. This will be followed by an outdoor luncheon in Brookside park. At 2 o'clock the state council convenes at the Maryland hotel, and at night the annual banquet will be held there.

McCormick Presides

Judge Paul J. McCormick, federal judge of Los Angeles, will serve as toastmaster.

On Tuesday the meeting will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and later an automobile trip will be taken to San Gabriel to visit the mission and also the Mission Play House. The grand ball will be held Tuesday night at Hotel Maryland.

The final session on Wednesday will be featured by the election of state officers.

Daily Greeting To News Readers

Life echoes back at us all just what we send forth. Good will comes to us in just the measure we send out good will thoughts. The measure of co-operation that you get is regulated by the amount of the spirit of helpfulness you have in you. You can sweeten life, you can add zest to it, you can make it in kind and measure just what you want it to be. Think the life you want and it will echo back just exactly as you think.

RELIABILITY OF REALTOR

One of the most remarkable transitions in modern economic life is the rise of the realty business to the plane of a profession, with the attendant development of a code of ethics which has culminated in the term "realtor" being adopted by national, state and city boards.

In that word realtor is an innate honesty of intention that makes board members a constructive force everywhere, and that compels maintenance of these high standards in the individual real estate man or woman. Like the banker, the realtor has learned that there is a sacred duty to every client—honesty.

This meaning is in the word and it must be in the member, or the word and the member will soon part company. There was a time, fortunately gone forever, when, "Oh, some real estate agent must have sold you that" was an expression of contempt, carrying with it the implication that the buyer had been "stuck." Today the prudent investor wishing to buy or owner wishing to sell, has learned that by consulting a realtor the ever possibility of being stuck is eliminated.

So strongly has the reliability of the realtor become established in the public mind today, that it has taken on a dignity not less than that attaching to banker, doctor or lawyer.

MEETING OBLIGATIONS

One of the greatest sources of friction, worry and trouble in the world comes from people who have never learned to meet their obligations, people who make contracts or promises, financial, civil or moral, and then forget about them, people who never look forward to the time when they must make good and consequently are never prepared to pay their debts, of whatever character they may be. This is usually the result of carelessness and shiftlessness, but in the end it amounts to dishonesty.

A man knows that a certain sum will be payable on a certain date as the result of a promise he has made, yet he makes no provision to meet this obligation. He seems to think the sum will come out of the air on the day it is due, if indeed he thinks of the matter at all. The man to whom this money is due is depending upon it to meet some obligation of his own and he becomes a defaulter through the carelessness and dishonesty of the other. And so it goes, the man who fails to support his family, the employee who falls down on his job, all make trouble and confusion in which others are the sufferers.

The man who is punctual in meeting obligations of every character has at least one of the qualifications of a good citizen.

THE CANDIDATES

McAdoo's chances for the nomination for the presidency, like those of Coolidge, were not checked by the oil investigations. On the contrary, his candidacy was strengthened. Those who tried to injure McAdoo, like those who wished to discredit Coolidge, found their insinuations and accusations were boomerangs. Both men are stronger than before.

Coolidge's nomination in the Republican convention is assured. So far in the state elections he has been the winner with the exception of South Dakota, which showed a preference for Hiram Johnson, and Wisconsin, which went for La Follette.

McAdoo, it is predicted, will make a strong fight in the Democratic convention, although Governor Al Smith of New York will be popular with those who oppose prohibition. With Senator Underwood of Indiana and Senator Ralston of Indiana also before the convention a deadlock may not be unlikely. Already John W. Davis of West Virginia and Senator Carter Glass of Virginia are being mentioned as compromise candidates.

WE'RE "AGIN" IT!

Now they have a sleeping box, open at both ends and warmed by electric lights, so that one may lie in the nude, give his body an air bath, dispense with beds and bed clothing, pajamas and old-fashioned night gowns. Not only the bed manufacturer but the undertaker as well should arise to combat the innovation. The inventor is liable to point to many advantages for his device. In case the sleeper passed on during the night's repose, the bed-box could be nailed up at both ends and used as a casket. The fellow who arises in his sleep, however, might bump his head on the roof. And think of the disadvantage of crawling out of a box several times each night to walk the floor with a colicky baby! Unless it be proven that the new-fangled bed will erase wrinkles, grow hair on a bald head and chase rheumatics around the block, we believe we will stick to the soft mattress and a pair of two blankets.

Ten years from now—yes, a year or two from now—we will have a new crop of citizens who truthfully can say they missed it by refusing to buy real estate in California. Some of them will have Glendale real estate in mind. And they will be referring to the good "buys" they turned down in 1924. The others, though—oh, the others will have retired by that time. They will be "sitting pretty," to use the slang of the day.

Men who disagree on politics, religion, bobbed hair and the merits of two automobiles, shake hands and come to a thorough understanding and agreement when served with apple pie or fried chicken that has been prepared to the queen's taste. Tastes differ, but he is a rare individual who doesn't like both dishes here mentioned.

All dining cars are run at a loss. If you can bring yourself to believe this you will enjoy your meals George brings you and possibly order a second dish of strawberries. Possibly we soon will be eating in Pullman cafeterias. There should be some way to come to the aid of the down-trodden railroads.

It's easier to find a sparking place than a parking place. But the time may come, as population and autos increase, when even the former may be subject to a limit of thirty or forty minutes. Thus would courting be speeded up.

Secretary Hoover reports that the Fijis have too many bananas. Looks to us like he's trying to revive "Yes, we have no bananas today."

This is the time of the year that the moth begins to look about for a likely overcoat. And the overcoat's owner for a straw hat.

Truth not only is stranger than fiction—it's more expensive when applied to the law-breaker.

SPRING TONIC

Anderson
By DR. FRANK CRANE

So they got Anderson. Anderson was a conspicuous member and leader of an organization opposed to the liquor traffic. He naturally made enemies. These enemies determined to "get" him and get him they did.

He has been stripped of his honors, branded as a criminal, and is now in the penitentiary of Sing Sing, wearing the convict's garb.

There is one point that I wish to bring out. While Anderson is serving his term in the penitentiary, for his alleged questionable deeds as a member of an organization whose purpose it is to maintain the law, the woods are full of gentlemen who are breaking the law every day.

As Cicero would say, "The Consul knows it, the Senate sees it."

In other words, it is a matter of common knowledge. Col. William Hayward, United States attorney for the southern district of New York, in a public speech the other day, charged that respectable citizens had become accomplices of "a lot of rotten criminals."

"I know people," he said, "who are protecting criminals, who are giving criminals immunity, who are sheltering and rewarding criminals and who are hiring criminals to commit either forgery, robbery, bribery or perjury."

All throughout the eastern states are men engaged in violating the law. They are living in respect and even in conviviality.

Anderson is shoveling coal at Sing Sing. Off the coast of the United States is a fleet of ships continually recruited from other shores, a fleet whose sole business it is to defy and nullify the law of the United States. About all that is worrying this fleet are the rum pirates, but the crews of the rum runners at least get a run for their money, enjoy the free air of the sea and have a bit of adventure. Anderson is busy at the coal pile.

Far be it from a mere writer to cast any aspersions upon the officers, but, at least, he can sometimes wonder whether what we call a court is a place for a man to "get" his enemy, or a place where the law of the land is even enforced. When Anderson started out to fight the gentlemen engaged in the liquor traffic he was attacking a group of seasoned veterans who have put many reformers behind prison bars and not a few under the sod.

He is paying the price. It is a nice question of law which, being a mere layman and writer, I cannot pretend to decide; whether forgery in the third degree is any worse than rum running in the first degree.

The quartette will now sing a hymn from Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury."

A nice dilemma we have here. Which calls for all our wit—for all our wit. "And at this stage it don't appear."

That we can settle it—that we can settle it."

PROFIT IN READING

(From San Francisco Journal)

Reading maketh the full man as physical exercise maketh the strong man. The man who is training and hardening his body does not carry away from the gymnasium the apparatus, but only the strength and endurance the exercise gives him. Nor is it what we take away from a book and store in the mind that gives us knowledge so much as it is the exercise of our mental powers in the reading.

The real advantage gained from books is from their suggestiveness. A good book is one that acts as a spark to latent thoughts. If there be any explosive material in a man a stimulating book will give it life and direction. Franklin's whole life was changed by a chance reading of Cotton Mather's "Essay to Do Good." The Lincoln devoured Weems' "Life of Washington." Dr. Charles W. Eliot announces that the pleasantest part of his nineteenth birthday celebration was the receipt of hundreds of letters from unknown friends who credited to his writings great changes in their own lives and viewpoints.

There are few influences in life that have such power to lift the humble plodder out of his rut as have books. Forty million copies of Elbert Hubbard's "Message to Garcia" were printed and distributed. It has been translated into every major language on earth. It has taught thousands the reward of initiative.

The poor, the wretched, the sick and the sorrowing find inspiration and companionship in books. The most welcome of gifts to the prisoner is a book or a magazine. Hospitals are constantly calling for donations of printed matter. Books bring light into darkness and sunshine into shadow.

The modern presses are placing at our command thousands of good books at nominal prices. Through the clean newspaper we can obtain the services of a regiment of thinkers and workers for the cost of a few cents. Where else can one get so large a return for the money invested? The only limit to the good we derive from the printed word is found in the thoroughness with which we read.

MOTOR ACCIDENTS

(From Kansas City Star)

There was a decided decrease in the motor accidents in Kansas City in March, compared with the records of the same month last year. This might be regarded as exceptional, not representative, but for the fact that there is an appreciable decrease also for the first quarter of this year.

Drivers are becoming more careful. The folly of careless driving is becoming too obvious to be treated with indifference. To a large extent increased safety is due to the propaganda of the safety council, which has been assiduous and ingenious in getting the attention of motorists.

Safety in traffic is almost wholly a mere matter of common sense and common consideration. When these fail, accidents are apt to occur. For instance, Wednesday evening, on Fifty-fifth street near Oak, when both sides of the street were compactly lined with cars parked by attendants at a neighboring church, a driver, taking a quick start in one of these parked cars, backed into a moving machine. Had the other car been going fast a serious accident might have occurred. As it was, the damage was to the cars only.

"I just backed without looking," said the offender. A man who handles his car without looking has no business at the wheel. Accidents, after all, are caused by a very small percentage of drivers. The great majority of motorists are safe, so far as their own responsibility goes.

CHARACTER BIG ASSET

(From Pasadena Star-News)

President Coolidge is praised by Secretary of State Hughes as being a man of superb character. And in this characterization of Mr. Coolidge the whole country will join. His name and fame are without blemish. His virtues are outstanding. He has led a rugged life. He was not born to ease and luxury. He has made himself, through hard effort. He embodies in his character the uncompromising character of New England—which has been and is a mighty influence throughout the land.

In the midst of scandal-breeding and sensational, irresponsible gossiping, it is refreshing to the American people to have in the White House a man like Calvin Coolidge in whose probity and conscientiousness the whole country can have and does have the utmost confidence.

Men of character are elected to the presidency. The American people make no mistakes in this. With justifiable pride the people may look back upon the line of presidents from George Washington down and, while a diversity of gifts and of temperaments is

Little Studies—of—Human Nature

A POOR LOSER

Human Nature is a poor loser. It is wonderfully difficult for our old friend to believe that his opponent has played fair when he (Human Nature) loses the game. The old man is inclined to sulk unless he wins. In any competitive effort he feels that some one has played him a trick if he is worsted.

Above all things we admire a good loser. Why? Because he is so rare. It is one of the most difficult and one of the most admirable things in the world to be able to heartily and sincerely congratulate a person who has won from us and to feel that he has won fairly and that he can wear the laurel crown as gracefully as we. We admire the loser who can do this because our own hearts tell us how difficult is his situation. We know that under the same circumstances we might not be so generous.

Egotism is at the bottom of this trait of Human Nature that causes him to sulk when he loses. We have such an exaggerated sense of our own importance and our own powers it is hard to conceive that any one could pass us in the race. And this applies both to the world of sports and the more serious affairs of life. If we win it is due to our effort and our superior capabilities; if the other fellow wins fate is against us and luck favors him. At the beginning of the race we are equal. At the end we are not only the loser but he is the winner. The distance between us is widened immeasurably by the plaudits of the crowd for him, their jeers or their sympathy for us.

We see this trait of Human Nature cropping up in the family circle over a little game played for pastime. We see it in the business world where some men spend more time trying to tear down their competitors than they do building up their own business. We see it in politics even oftener when the beaten candidate blames his defeat upon his opponent's unfair methods, upon the crowd for its or upon anything but his own unworthiness.

It is a despicable trait, that of sulking when another wins from us fairly, and attempting to discredit him and his attainments. The worst of it is, our indignation, vexation or our anger get us nowhere. Such a mood only adds to the reproach that somehow attaches to the loser in any game, no matter how splendid the effort or how fair the fight he has made. Sulking when he is beaten only serves to make old Human Nature ridiculous.

A Thought That Came Today

By HARVEY E. WESTGATE of Glendale

OUR HOME

A cozy home at the foot of a hill,
With mountain peaks beyond,
A strip of green and a valley between,
And a fragrant lily pond.

Hills brush-covered and flower-bedecked,
And roads that wind and wind,
Gay mockers that sing with song unchecked,
And neighbors who are kind.

Sunlight and shadow, and moonlight nights,
Sweet zephyrs from over the sea,
An orange grove and a canyon cove,
And contentment for you and me.

The After House

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

THE STORY

Dr. Ralph Leslie just graduated from medical college, and just over an attack of typhoid fever, ships on the yacht Ella as a sort of deck steward. He is penniless and thinks this will be a good opportunity to recuperate. Marshall Turner is the owner. His wife, her sister Elsa, a divorcee named Mrs. Johns, and a man named Vail are the passengers. Turner is dissipated and evidently jealous of his wife and Vail. There is a crew of fourteen, including the stewardess, a maid named Karen Hansen, the cook and Williams, the butler. Charlie Jones, a German sailor with a bent for religion, is friendly to Leslie. Captain Richardson and Turner have an argument over running the ship. Turner, drunk, appoints Singleton captain. Richardson knocks Singleton down and threatens to put Turner in irons if he interferes with the running of the boat. Mrs. Johns asks Leslie to sleep near the passengers' staterooms, in a pantry, as she is afraid of trouble. One night Schwartz, the second mate, disappears overboard, though nobody sees him jump. On the night of August 12 Leslie wakes in the pantry to find himself locked in. He uncovers the lock, hears a woman's scream, runs to Vail's room for help—and finds Vail dead, murdered with an ax. He goes to tell the captain, and finds him dead, killed in the same way. Singleton collapses, and is too stupefied to take command. When Leslie goes to call Karen, the maid, to help the ladies, he finds that she, too, has been murdered. Burns, one of the crew, who had been fond of her, is especially upset. Mrs. Sloane, the stewardess, is in a state of collapse. The men put Leslie in charge, and they decide to head back to port. The ax is found where it was flung into the stewardess's berth. She says that Karen had been roused by a bell in the night, she thought Mrs. Turner's, but Mrs. Turner says she did not ring. Karen told the stewardess she thought Turner, who had annoyed her, was outside the door. She opened the door, screamed, and fell dead. Mrs. Sloane said she saw a figure in white in the door throw the ax toward her. The crew imprisons Singleton. Leslie and Burns share responsibility for keeping up discipline. They lock the one in the captain's cabin and Leslie takes the key. The other key, the one to the pantry, has not been found. "Find that and you will find the man who locked you in," says Elsa. They put the bodies in a lifeboat. Leslie and Elsa find that the bell that called Karen registered Vail's room.

XI—THE KEY

What Elsa Lee would not see the men had seen, and, in their need, they had made me their leader. To her I was Leslie, the common sailor until the end of the voyage. "Mr. Turner is awake, I believe," I said stiffly. "Very well."

She turned back into the main cabin; but she paused at the storeroom door.

"It is curious that you heard nothing," she said slowly. "You sleep with this door open, didn't you?"

"I was locked in."

She stooped quickly and looked at the lock.

"You broke it open?"

"Partly, at the last. I heard—"

"I stopped. I did not want to tell her what I had heard. But she knew."

"You heard—Karen, when she screamed?"

"Yes. I was aroused before that—I do not know how—and found I was locked in. I thought it might be a joke—forecastle hands are fond of joking, and they resented my being brought here to sleep. I took out some of the screws with my knife, and—then I broke the door."

"You saw no one?"

"It was dark; I saw and heard no one."

"But, surely—the man at the wheel—"

"Hush," I warned her; "he is there. He heard something, but the helmsman cannot leave the wheel."

"She was stooping to the lock again."

"You are sure it was locked?"

"The bolt is still shot."

"Then—where is the key?"

"The key?"

"Certainly. Find the key, and you will find the man who locked you in."

"Unless," I reminded her, "it flew out when I broke the lock."

"In that case, it will be on the floor."

But an exhaustive search of the cabin floor discovered no key.

Jones, seeing us searching, helped, his revolver in one hand, and a lighted match in the other, handling both with an abandon of ease that threatened us alternately with fire and a bullet. But there was no key.

"It stands to reason, miss, he said, when he had given up, that since the key isn't here, it isn't on the ship. That there key is a sort of red-hot give-away. No one is going to carry a thing like that around. Either it's here in this cabin—which it isn't—or it's overboard."

"Very likely, Jones. But I shall ask Mr. Turner to search the men."

She went toward Turner's door, and Jones leaned over me, putting a hand on my arm.

"She's right, boy," he said quickly. "Don't let 'em know what you're after, but go through their pockets. And their shoes."

He called after me. A key slips into a shoe might as well be a key to the door.

But, after all, it was not necessary. The key was to be found, and very soon.

Exactly what occurred during Elsa Lee's visit to her brother-in-law's cabin I have never learned. He was sober, I know, and somewhat dazed, with no recollection whatever of the previous night, except a hazy idea that he had quarreled with Richardson.

Jones and I waited outside. He suggested that we have prayers over the bodies when we placed them in the boat, and I agreed to read the burial service from the Episcopal prayer-book. The voices from Turner's cabin came steadily. Miss Lee's low tones, Turner's heavy bass only now and then. Once I heard her give a startled exclamation, and both Vail's and Leslie's voices came.

But the next moment she was talking again quietly.

Ten minutes—fifteen—passed. I grew restless and took to wandering about the cabin. Mr. Johns came to the door opposite, and asked to have tea sent down to the stewardess. I called the request up the companionway, unwilling to leave the cabin for a moment. When I came back Jones was standing at the door of Vail's cabin, looking in. His face was pale.

"Look there!" he said hoarsely. "Look at the bell. He must have tried to push the button!"

I stared in. Williams had put the cabin to rights, as nearly as he could. The soaked mattress was gone, and a clean linen sheet was spread over the bunk. Poor Vail's clothing, as he had taken it off the night before, hung on a mahogany stand beside the bed, and above almost concealed by his coat, was the bell. Jones' eyes were fixed on the darkish smear, over and around the bell, on the white paint.

I measured the height of the bell from the bed. It was well above and to one side—a smear rather than a print, too indeterminate to be of any value, sinister, cruel.

"He didn't do that, Charlie," I said. "He couldn't have got up to it after—that is the murderer's mark. He leaned there, one hand against the wall, to look down at his work. And, without knowing it, he pressed the button that roused the two women."

He had not heard the story of Henrietta Sloane and, as I waited, I told him. Some of the tension was relaxing. He tried, in his argumentative German way, to drag me into a discussion as to the foreordination of a death that resulted from an accidental ringing of a bell. But my ears were alert for the voices near by, and soon Miss Lee opened the door.

Turner was sitting on his bunk. He had made an attempt to smoke, and had cut his chin severely. He was in a dressing gown, and was holding a handkerchief to his face; he peered at me over it with red-rimmed eyes.

"This—is this horrible, Leslie," he said. "I can hardly believe it."

"It is true, Mr. Turner."

"Why-why was I not—called at once?"

"I notified you. You were—you must have gone to sleep again."

"Where's Williams?"

"I can get him for you."

"Tell him to bring me a highball. My mouth's sticky."

He ran his tongue over his dry lips. "And—take a message from me to Richardson—"

He started. "To—who's running the boat, anyhow? Singleton?"

"Mr. Singleton is a prisoner in the forward house," I said gravely.

"Singleton!" he said. "Why do they—he—how do they know it was he?"

"He had quarreled with the captain last night, and he was on duty at the time of the—when the thing happened. The man at the wheel claims to have seen him in the chartroom just before, and there was other evidence, I believe. The lookout saw him forward, with something—possibly the ax. Not decisive, of course, but enough to justify putting him in irons. Somebody did it, and the murderer is on board, Mr. Turner."

His grin had faded, but the crafty look in his pale-blue eyes remained.

"The chartroom was dark. How could the steersman—" He checked himself abruptly, and looked at us both quickly.

"Where are they?" he asked in a different tone.

"On deck."

"We can't keep them in this weather."

"We must," I said. "We will have to get to the nearest port as quickly as we can, and surrender ourselves and the bodies. This thing will have to be sifted to the bottom, Mr. Turner. The innocent must not suffer for the guilty, and every one on the ship is under suspicion."

He fell into a passion at that, insisting that the bodies be buried at once, asserting his ownership of the vessel as his authority, demanding to know what I, a forecastle hand, had to say about it, flinging up and down the small room, showering me with invective and threats, and shoving forward, with something like a calming hand on his arm. The cut on his chin was bleeding again, adding to his wild and sinister expression. He ended by demanding Williams.

I opened the door and called to Charlie Jones to send the butler, and stood by, waiting for the fresh explosion that was coming. Williams shakily confessed that there was no whiskey on board.

"Where is it?" Turner thundered.

Williams looked at me. He erated by C. C. Kuver, 227 North Maryland avenue, and P. J. Alvarado, 715 West Wilson avenue. Only the most modern equipment has been installed here. A gas oven of 150 loaf capacity, which can be refilled every fifty minutes. An electric dough mixer, also an electric cake batter mixer, have been installed. In addition to the daily baking of bread, the proprietors intend to put out a full line of delicatessen goods.

Cooling System

The entire store is served by a central refrigeration system, in which ammonia is used. The pipes are connected with the grocery, meat market, delicatessen and bakery, insuring that the proper temperature is maintained at all times.

At the formal opening tonight, when no goods will be sold, but visitors will be conducted on a tour of inspection of the entire store, music will be furnished by an orchestra engaged for the occasion.

The store will be thrown open for business Saturday morning, and in keeping with the advent of Seelig's sixth store in Glendale, special prices will prevail which will no doubt tempt many Glendale housewives to visit the new market.

There is probably not a keener student of industrial conditions in southern California than Sam Seelig, who, from a modest beginning, has risen until he is today California's leading grocer. That he should have chosen Glendale as the city in which to establish five stores within a year, speaks well for the impression this city has made upon him. The opening of any Seelig store has a psychological effect upon the vicinity. Realtors point with pride to any corner when they are able to say that "Sam Seelig is going to open a store here."

Mr. Borgen, speaking for the Brookside Market company, says "This is our first store in Glendale, but we sincerely hope it will not be our last."

place on an estate of a South Sea Island sugar planter, Mr. Norton, and introduced throughout the story are musical numbers from the latest New York successes.

The first scene is staged in the garden of Mr. Norton's estate, E. F. Maxwell of Los Angeles, who has had over 20 years' professional experience, takes the part of Mr. Norton.

Miss Kilpatrick appears in the leading role as Miss Gerry Norton, daughter of Mr. Norton. Miss Kilpatrick's solo, "In the Garden of Tomorrow" and "When the Lights Are Low" were particularly pleasing as well as the duet numbers of Miss Kilpatrick and Norman Kelch, "A Kiss in the Dark" and "The Sciot Waltz Song," written by Sciot J. A. Becker, one of the boys in the prize-winning band.

Jack Lawrence of the Keith and Orpheum Circuits and his partner, Miss Helen McPeak, enlivened the first act with their songs and dances. Mr. Lawrence's jokes and comedy were especially clever and received ringing applause. Miss McPeak in her song and dance, "Lovin' Inexpensive Baby," made a decided hit.

The curtain went up at 8:30 o'clock on a chorus of dancing girls and from then on there was not a dull moment.

Each chorus was elaborately costumed lending a colorful effect to the various acts. Their dances and peppy songs were greatly appreciated. The quiet dances given by Miss Lois Naudain and Sarah Chandler were featured of the act. The opening chorus of the second act, "Oriental Love Dreams," with Miss Julia Frostrum as soloist, was a striking number. The sailors' quartette, composed of four of Glendale's prominent male singers and pupils of Keumoko A. Lewis, were called back three times. Their selection, "Give a Man a Horse and He Can Ride," proved a most delightful number.

Program Is Given

The complete program presented last night is as follows:

was in a state of inarticulate fright. "I ordered it overboard," I said. Turner whirled on me, incredulity and rage in his face. "You!"

I put the best face I could on the matter, and eyed him steadily. "There has been too much drinking on this ship," I said. "If you doubt it, go up and look at the three bodies on the deck." "What have you to do about it?" His eyes were narrowed; there was menace in every line of his face.

"With Schwartz gone, Captain Richardson dead, and Singleton in irons, the crew had no officers. They asked me to take charge. 'So! And you used your authority to meddle with what does not concern you! The ship has an officer while I am on it. And there will be no mutiny.'"

He flung into the main cabin, and made for the forward companionway. I stepped back to allow Miss Lee to precede me. She was standing, her back to the dressing-stand, facing the door. She looked at me, and made a helpless gesture with her hands, as if the situation were beyond her. Then I saw her look down. She took a quick step or two

KNIGHTS GATHER TO HONOR AGENT

Special Representative of Supreme Council Speaks
On Co-operation

The first regular monthly business meeting of Glendale council, No. 1920, Knights of Columbus, held last night at the East Lomita avenue clubhouse, Grand Knight Jesse E. Smith presiding, proved to be a most inspiring assemblage and presaged a highly successful convention at Pasadena, May 4 to 8.

Robert MacKenzie, special supreme agent from the supreme council at San Francisco, gave a strong address on "Co-operation," directed particularly at the new members, urging upon them the necessity of working together for the common goal.

Miss Ruth Palethorpe of Los Angeles, sang, after which her sister, Miss Delores Palethorpe outlined the activities of the Young Ladies' institute and announced a dance to be held at the Gamut club of Los Angeles, the night of May 9. Tickets for this affair may be obtained at the local clubhouse, states F. Wallace, club manager.

Visitors Attend
Harry Girard, past grand knight, concluded the social program with a vocal solo. Many visitors were present, among them representatives from Pasadena and from the newly-formed Ocean Park council.

It was urged that as many members as possible put their cars to the disposal of the local clubhouse on the convention days, that many Knights from other parts of the country may be privileged to ride around Glendale and become acquainted with the residential charms and business opportunities.

SUES FOR $33,000

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—Alleging that the Western Savings bank of Long Beach has refused to deliver to him a $10,000 stock certificate as part of a realty deal involving a fourteen-unit apartment court at Long Beach, and demanding $33,000 judgment against Joseph Bucher, buyer, suit has been filed by John J. Weller of that city. The property is worth $60,000, he claims.

MISSIONARIES ARE HONORED GUESTS

Young People's Society of Presbyterian Church Present Program

New members of the Glendale Presbyterian church and Rev. and Mrs. Hazelton, whom the young people's society are sending to do missionary work in South America, were honored last night at an informal social affair at the church.

W. A. Horn presided over the program, which included an address of welcome by Dr. J. K. Gilkerson; responses by Rev. and Mrs. Hazelton; reading by Mrs. Maude Malmberg; magic tricks by H. V. White, and a solo by O. Andersen.

During the evening the young people of the church showed the Hazeltons with gifts that will be useful to them in their work in South America. They are to leave in June.

Mesdames Kinney and King served punch; Mrs. Hogan was chairman of the artistic decorations in pink and white; Miss Harris arranged the program, and Miss Keers had charge of the name cards.

A New Laundry Service

for Glendale

"Starting Wash Day with the Washing Done"

That's what "Wet Wash" service means. You can start right in to dry and iron the clothes that have come back to you clean and white. And the few cents a pound that it costs you is nothing compared to the long hours of hard work that you save.

Twenty Pounds (An Average Family Wash) for $1.00

"Wet Wash" for the Woman Who Wants Real Economy.

—Of course we want to do all your ironing. But just because you prefer to economize by doing it yourself is no reason why we should not relieve you of the more burdensome task of washing the clothes.

—Our "Wet Wash" service meets this situation exactly. This service consists of merely washing and rinsing your clothes thoroughly, extracting most of the water and returning them to you damp, to be starched, dried and ironed at home.

—We have installed special equipment for this new department. We are prepared to give you first class, prompt service.

San Francisco Chronicle, Hiram Johnson Supporter, Comes Out For Coolidge

A statement issued by Calvin Coolidge's opponent in California has resulted in a complete transformation in the attitude of this opponent's principal newspaper support in the state. On the morning of April 30 the San Francisco Chronicle, which supported Hiram Johnson in his last campaign for the Senate, issued the following editorial:

JOHNSON UNFAIR TO CALIFORNIA

He is asking too much of this great state when he expects it to endorse unwarranted and untrue aspersions on the president of the United States

The people of the state of California are in a peculiar position. They have been extremely kind and generous toward Hiram Johnson. When three or four years ago there was some hope that he might be the presidential nominee of the Republican party the state voted solidly for his delegates against all opponents.

Johnson again announced himself as a candidate in 1923 and started to tour the country. He made speeches declaring that certain states would instruct their delegates to the national Republican convention for him. In nearly every instance his predictions failed.

The country, almost unanimously, has endorsed the administration of President Coolidge, who now has nearly 100 instructed delegates in excess of the number required to insure his nomination.

The situation became very plain to Senator Johnson and a few days ago he announced that he had cancelled his speaking engagements and that further efforts on his part to secure delegates would cease.

There is no other reason now why California should not accept his announcement as final. He made it himself. But now he comes out with a statement virtually asking California to take a position in the Republican convention in opposition to the practically unanimous preference of the entire country.

We do not think this is fair to Senator Johnson. California is a great and important state. It requires much national legislation to protect and develop its vast resources. How can we consistently expect the federal government to give us the consideration due us if there is always to be opposition to existing administrations?

We do not see of what advantage it would be to California to elect delegates to the Republican convention instructed for Hiram Johnson when it is known in advance their time and their votes will be wasted.

We are perplexed and astounded by the statement put out by Mr. Johnson:

"I MAKE NO PERSONAL APPEAL. MY WAY IS CLEAR TO ME. WITHIN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY, NATIONALLY, I SHALL CONTINUE TO FIGHT."

And in this same statement he makes, by implication, a most unusual and unwarranted attack on the president of the United States:

"IN THE PRESENT CONTEST ON THE ONE HAND ARE THOSE MASQUERADING UNDER ADVOCACY OF THE PRESIDENT, WHO FOR FOURTEEN YEARS HAD BITTERLY OPPOSED EVERY PROGRESSIVE MEASURE, EVERY ACT OF REFORM, EVERY HUMANITARIAN LAW OF OUR STATE, AND WHO BY THE BLACK ART OF LYING PROPAGANDA HAVE ENDEAVORED TO DESTROY EVERY MAN AND WOMAN WHO IN THE FERVOR OF PUBLIC SERVICE HAVE SOUGHT ONLY THE PUBLIC GOOD."

We cannot understand why Senator Johnson, who has received all kinds of favors and all kinds of honors from this state, should make his present attack on the president. Such methods only serve to exasperate his followers and all good citizens of California. It is uncalled for and untrue.

He cannot expect the rank and file of the great Republican party in California to go to the polls and endorse such aspersions on the chief executive of the nation.

W. E. Evans of Glendale, candidate on the Coolidge ticket for delegate to the national Republican convention, today made the following statement regarding Senator Johnson's open letter to California's Republicans:

Johnson's letter to voters of California in which he attacks the president and incidentally everyone supporting him for re-nomination, is disgraceful. It is a most colossal example of selfishness and bigotry. Every loyal Republican should and will resent this attempt on his part to split, tear down and disrupt the party in California which has been more than kind and generous to him. After nearly every state in the Union has voted unqualified endorsement of President Coolidge and after he, Johnson, has acknowledged his failure in this campaign by cancelling all his speaking engagements, he sends this vitriolic, desperate and riotously mad appeal to the voters of California, asking them to repudiate the president, his administration and the Republican party, for no other purpose than to appease the wrath of Senator Johnson. Republicans of California will resent this by giving Coolidge a majority next Tuesday of at least one hundred thousand.

ATTEND BANQUET TO KIWANIS HEAD

Eight Members of Tujunga Club Are Guests at Dinner to Arras

A delegation of eight Kiwanis club members of Tujunga, headed by President A. C. Stover, attended the banquet given Tuesday night in honor of Edmund F. Arras, president of Kiwanis International, at the Alexandria hotel in Los Angeles. Mr. Arras is making a tour of the Pacific coast before leaving for the Kiwanis convention at Denver in June. Thirty southern California clubs were represented at the banquet, a total of 300 being present to honor the executive leader of nearly 90,000 business executives who form the membership of 1200 Kiwanis clubs. Those attending from Tujunga were President A. C. Stover, Dr. Spates, Dr. Jolinski, Carroll Parker, E. A. Miller, T. C. Bludworth, Ed Day, and Rev. W. E. Smith.

A program of musical numbers was given by Sol Cohen, violinist, and Margaret Messer Morris, soloist.

Burglars Loot Homes Of Rich Angelenos

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—Burglars secured $12,000 in jewelry, furs and clothing during an active night spent looting the residences of well known Angelenos, including Ann Luther, actress, and wife of Ed Gallagher of the theatrical fame of Gallagher and Shean, on their calling list. She lost a chinchilla coat.

OLD FOLKS HEAR GOSPEL SERVICE

Occupants of Home for Aged Hear Hymns, Sermon by Religious Worker

Thirty occupants and attendants of the Home for the Aged, conducted at Sunland by the Volunteers of America, enjoyed the first gospel services held there by the Christian Companionship league Monday night. Raymond Shockey is president of the league, which is an auxiliary of the Volunteers composed of young people. Mr. and Mrs. Kleefish have charge of the home, which was given to the Volunteers by the Los Angeles Council of Community Service.

Adjutant Ida Krug spoke and four children of Adjutant A. Jewell of San Diego contributed string instrument music to a program of hymns and old favorites. The Home at Sunland has been in operation since last December, when the property was transferred to the Volunteers, and provides comfortable quarters for aged persons who like a quiet home. The proximity of Monte Vista park gives them a pleasant place to spend their time in the open.

Permission Is Given To Hold Track Meet

SACRAMENTO, May 2.—The State High school track meet, planned at Taft on May 10, will be held regardless of developments in the foot and mouth epidemic, it was announced today by Dr. Herbert R. Stolz, state supervisor of physical education.

Permission to hold the meet was obtained from Dr. U. G. Houck, chief of the federal forces engaged in fighting the live stock plague, it was said.

BURBANK

ORGANIZATION IS FORMED IN CITY

Property Owners on Central Avenue Organize; Will Boost Community

Added to the rapidly growing list of organizations to foster the growth of this city is the Central Avenue Development Association, with over fifty members. Central Avenue is so situated as a direct route between Burbank and Lancaster that experts believe it will soon be the main thoroughfare connecting these two valley towns. Paving on this eighty-foot highway will be completed this week, which fact will greatly increase traffic. Being on a ridge and having no curves, it presents great possibilities, it is believed, for becoming a leading highway straight across the valley.

Those interested in the formation of the Central Avenue Development Association include James Jeffries, L. H. Boydston, Dan Jolley, Howard Renney, C. Mathies, John A. Sommers, Paul La Bue, Judge Shelton, John Jeffries and William Roscup. The purpose of the organization is to advertise the advantages of Central Avenue and further all civic improvements in the district.

Preston Resigns

D. S. Preston, chairman of the executive committee of the Burbank Credit Association, has resigned and his place has been filled by Harry Kendig. The chief matter before the organization at the present time is the settlement of the night patrol proposition which has been up in the air for the past several weeks.

Mrs. J. M. Woodrow has left for her home at Newton, Iowa, after spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. A. C. Kelnath, in this city. Although having reached the ripe old age of 80 years, Mrs. Woodrow takes quite an active interest in life, and during her sojourn in Burbank made numerous friends, who hope to see her back again at the approach of the snows of another winter.

Roy L. Kent to Build

The corner of San Fernando boulevard and Tujunga avenue, owned by Roy L. Kent of Glendale is to be improved with a brick building covering fifty-five feet of the frontage. The rest will be offered for sale. While declining to state the nature of the building, Mr. Kent intimates it will be in keeping with the developments in that section.

The Lane building which has just been vacated by Belch & Parrish was no sooner emptied than workmen began remodeling it in preparation for Reimers, who will soon move into it.

The building will be entirely remodeled and when finished will

Deposits of Silica, Graphite To Be Developed by Owners of Claims

According to reports, a Los Angeles company has secured the old mine property in Little Tujunga canyon, just below the mouth of Gold creek, and intend to develop the silica and graphite deposits found there.

At one time tunnels were driven into the hills on one side of the canyon and attempts were made to get gold from the formation, but the assays were not favorable. Instead, there were uncovered large quantities of graphite, said to be a better grade than the Mexican product.

May Extend Mines

A survey was recently made of the Verdugo hills district by the Southern California Gas company, with a view to establishing the advisability of extending their gas mains into the territory still without gas, which lies west of La Crescenta.

ARIZONA
PHOENIX — Secretary Hubert Work of the Interior Department and Commissioner Charles H. Burke of the Indian Bureau were guests today of the Valley Lunch-club. They spoke of the necessity of local co-operation with the Indian Bureau in the task of making the Indian an asset rather than a liability, and of the efforts now being put forth to establish better sanitation on the reservations.

SAN CARLOS—Construction of a dam across the canyon of the Gila river here was reported approved today by the House Indian committee. Expenditure of $5,500,000 is authorized in the measure which has passed the Senate.

TEXAS
FORT WORTH—The testimony of a little girl 7 years old, who never before saw the inside of a courtroom, sent Mrs. Nora Bosche to the penitentiary for twenty years for killing the little girl's mother, Mrs. Edna S. Kellersberger. The girl is Winifred Kellersberger and her mother was the step-daughter of Mrs. Bosche.

IDAH0
MALAD—Idaho ranks high among the states of the Union in the production per acre of winter wheat, oats and rye and second in the production per acre of spring wheat, corn, barley, oats and clover seed, according to figures compiled by the Idaho crop reporting service.

KANSAS
TOPEKA — Does interference with radio waves carrying a sermon constitute a violation of the Kansas law prohibiting interference with religious worship? That is the question submitted to Charles B. Griffith, attorney-general, today by the congregation of a little church at Norway, in Republic county. This church does not have a pastor at the present time so they had installed a radio receiving set and have been getting the services from Omaha. But it seems that there is a small broadcasting station not far from Norway and it appears that the operator of this station keeps interfering with the reception of the Omaha church service.

ROBINSON—Nearly an entire business block was destroyed by fire here. The fire started in a produce house, a frame building belonging to W. A. Saville, swept north up the street, driven by a high wind. It is estimated losses from the fire will total $100,000.

COLORADO
DURANGO—Next week Commissioner Parvin will liberate several score of Hungarian partridges in the vicinity of Durango, Montrose, Paonin and Monte Vista. The birds arrived and it appears that the operator of this station keeps interfering with the reception of the Omaha church service.

DENVER—The number of Indians in America is steadily increasing, the annual report of the commissioner of Indian affairs revealed here today. "Since 1910 the Indian population has increased more than 13,000," the report says, "until they number 344,303."

ALASKA
SEWARD—The crossing of the caribou with the reindeer of Alaska is producing a strange cross, in which the caribou is not apparent except in the length of leg and the solid color. When the reindeer has been taught to eat grain as a steady diet it will be a fine beast of burden.

CANADA
QUEBEC—The White Star-Dominion Line freighter Cornishman from Bristol for Montreal, the first trans-Atlantic vessel to come through the Gulf of St. Lawrence this season, grounded near the South Traverse about sixty miles below this point. The freighter was not seriously damaged.

PENNSYLVANIA
CORRY—Death came yesterday to Mrs. Evelyn Sample, 78, after she had lain unconscious for almost four years. She was struck by a street car on August 5, 1920, and never regained consciousness. In the entire period she was given on a bet, he rode down the stone steps of the courthouse, the same stone steps of the same courthouse that stands to this day on the eminence just south of Temple street.

Mr. Korn's first place of business was on Broadway (it was then called Ford street), just about where the Mason Opera house now stands. The tallest building in Los Angeles at that time was the Bryson building at Second and Spring streets. Today it is one of the "skyscrapers" amid a forest of height-limit giants.

Fortunes Made and Lost
In all the years from 1887 (when J. Korn came to Los Angeles, a native of Poland, en route from London and New York), fortunes were made and lost almost over night. Many with nothing accumulated millions. Others with fortunes sank them and vanished from the scene. Monte Carlo could be no more ruthless with the gambler than Los Angeles was in those wild years.

MISSOURI
KANSAS CITY—A "family" group meeting of officials of the Rock Island in Kansas City territory will be May 2 and at the Hotel Baltimore.

The meeting will be similar in purpose to others held in Kansas City in May a year.

"The Rock Island has found it sound business policy to call all its department heads and lesser officers in to shake hands with the higher officials," G. W. Rourke, superintendent of the Kansas City-St. Louis division, said.

MICHIGAN
MT. CLENS—A strange case has come to light in the matter of the alleged confession of Homer La Grange, to the looting of a bank. The bank denies, virtually, that he was the man, as the cashier cannot identify La Grange as one of his assailants, even though La Grange repeats portions of the conversation and tells of incidents that occurred during the crime.

DETROIT—Three persons have been arrested here on the charge of having built a house with stolen lumber. Joe York was charged with having robbed a lumber yard for the structure of the house and furnishings for the interior of the house from various rooms he had lived in. The lot was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hughes, who though arrested, deny all knowledge of the affair but are being held on charges of receiving stolen property.

IOWA
SIOUX CITY—All "cheek to cheek" and "strangle hold" dancing has been eliminated from Sioux City public dance halls and management of the dance resorts should not be criticized on the basis of the dancing itself, according to statements Friday by Mrs. Sadie Smith, police matron, and assistant matrons who have been supervising public dances.

INDIANA
INDIANAPOLIS—Several letters containing preliminaries to the old Spanish swindle have been received within the last few weeks, according to an announcement made public by the postmaster.

ILLINOIS
CHICAGO—The American radio fan who gets his jazz, his weather forecasts and frequently his sermons, out of the air, soon will be enabled to get a complete college education through the same medium, with a nicely engraved diploma thrown in.

MEXICO
MAZATLAN, Sinaloa—The noted hacienda de Quimichia in Nayarit has been purchased by capitalists of Los Angeles for a consideration involving several million dollars, according to advices received here. The hacienda, which lies along the Acaponota river for a distance of about thirty miles, comprises an area of approximately 85,000 acres.

OHIO
CLEVELAND—The deadly corner aboard the liner President Madison was destroyed by a fire which broke out on board the vessel in No. 5 hold. The fire was controlled without other damage.

Of Seaboard National

G. W. Jorres of 528 West Wilson avenue has been elected cashier and director of the Seaboard National Bank of Los Angeles, according to an announcement made by George L. Browning, president of the new institution.

Mr. Jorres has a wide acquaintance among local bankers, having been national bank examiner in the Los Angeles district for several years. Prior to this appointment he was connected with the American National Bank of San Diego.

He has been a resident of Glendale for the past four years and is a native son, having been born in San Diego. He is thoroughly acquainted with the Pacific Coast banking conditions.

The opening of Seaboard National Bank will take place about June 1 at 612-614 South Spring street.

Very few members of the La Crescenta Improvement association were present at the regular monthly meeting, held last night in the La Crescenta schoolhouse. A report of the last dance showed the proceeds to be $23.10, to be used, as usual, in the fire fund.

Harvey Bissell moved that a request be presented to the governing council of fifteen to petition the Verdugo City Association of Commerce to bear its share of the fire-fighting funds. The motion carried.

The fire fund at present is taken care of half and half by the Montrose Chamber of Commerce and the La Crescenta Improvement association, the funds being raised by dances, generally.

Sets for Chorus

A letter read from the Rose-centa chorus asked all members of the Improvement association who could be present on Sunday at the Hollywood Bowl, as there were seventy-five seats reserved for this community chorus. The autos will leave the Montrose bank corner promptly at 1:30, and all are requested to be on time.

A letter in regard to forming a retail merchants' association was indorsed.

The committee of fifteen is to meet next Monday night at Montrose schoolhouse, where President Brown of the Chamber of Commerce will preside. This council is composed of members from the Improvement association, Montrose Chamber of Commerce and Verdugo City Association of Commerce. President Collins presented a precinct map put out by the supervisors which did not include districts which, by geographical lines, should belong to La Crescenta voting district, and whose residents prefer to be in La Crescenta valley district. Mr. Bissell will take up the matter with Mr. Keppel of the school board. Secretary Plaisted was also instructed to write a letter to the board, calling its attention to the matter of boundaries.

Seek Phone Exchange
Embert Brown, as a member of telephone committee, presented a list of the old subscribers to be given by them to procure a local telephone exchange. Noticeable in the list was the Verdugo City fire department, located at Hermosa and Los Angeles, and Mr. Fowler's residence. If the present telephone users will sign this petition the exchange will be located here and will be known by some other name than Glendale. Dr. Wemple gave data on the cost of the new system to subscribers, and, from the figures he presented, it would seem the cost would be greatly reduced.

Mr. Brown spoke on postoffice service, requesting all who can to get their mail through La Crescenta postoffice, instead of Glendale, to establish the name of La Crescenta in the public mind.

President M. S. Collins requested all members to notice where streets were unmarked, and at the next meeting bring in the names, when an effort will be made to put up signposts. The houses are also to be numbered.

Urge Ban On Japs

Mr. Baron, speaking for the American Legion, requested the association to wire President Coolidge to sign the Johnson immigration bill to bar the Japanese. The state department of the Legion has sent word to all posts to send members to speak to the different civic associations on the matter. Mr. Bissell stated he had wired President Coolidge already on behalf of the Farm Bureau. Embert Brown spoke on the Japanese situation in the Hawaiian islands, where, while children must go to private schools to receive proper instruction on account of the pidgin English used in the school. A wire will go forward immediately from the La Crescenta Improvement association.

Reference was made to the bond issue coming up for vote on May 6. Mr. Bissell stated this was a most important issue, particularly to this valley, and should receive the full support of all residents.

Mr. Baron extended an invitation to all residents of La Crescenta valley to be present at the Legion's open house, to be held next Wednesday night, at the Sparr Heights community home. Dr. Wemple also extended an invitation on behalf of the Verdugo City association to be present at the big May day party to be given in the school auditorium Saturday night, tickets to be 50 cents.

IMPROVING ROAD

CAMP BALDY, May 2.—It is certain now that the road to the summit of Old Baldy will be completed before the end of the year. Work will commence during June and will be pushed to reach the top before snow falls. The road will be built by private interests headed by O. L. Grimsley. There now remains little to perfect the region in and about Old Baldy as to accessibility, except to cut the old road, long since washed out, through from San Antonio canyon, up Icehouse canyon, over the pass at Telegraph Peak and so offer a mode of ingress via Cajon Pass and Lytle Creek.

The Union Pacific announces a permanent reduction in local passenger fares between California, Nevada and Utah points on its lines west of and including Salt Lake City. EAGLE ROCKSETS RECORD IN FINDING MISSING*Officer Thomason Locates Woman 50 Minutes After Report Received

Officer B. W. Thomason of the Eagle Rock police department is in a fair way to become the local Sherlock Holmes. In fact he already holds the community record for finding out things.

Officer Thomason's forte is the location of missing women. This reputation was recently strengthened when he found Mrs. Lena Marie Barton of 1215 North Avenue 54 within fifty minutes of the time her disappearance was reported to local headquarters.

The report came to the police department at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, to the effect that Mrs. Barton had left home without any money. A description of the missing woman was given to the police department by her husband, S. Barton. The Eagle Rock department received calls from both Central station and Lincoln Heights, requesting aid in the search to be made for Mrs. Barton, but before the search might be said to be started, Officer Thomason, on driving past Avenue 54 and York boulevard, caught sight of the missing woman emerging from an alley, and recognized her through the description furnished.

Letter From Ritchey

Rev. William Middlemass of the local Presbyterian church has received a letter from Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ritchey, now on a world tour. The letter tells of planning to take a steamer from London on April 23, arriving in New York May 1, "from whence we will journey to Texas," it goes on to say, "visiting the old home; then on to Denver. We hope to return to Eagle Rock by June 1." "Hong Kong was interesting, a fine city and situated on an island belonging to England. The Bay drive is as fine as will be found anywhere. The city built on hills, worse than San Francisco, and such an outlook from the top of them! Many of the English have built fine homes there, for winter mostly, I think. A seventy mile drive on the mainland was very interesting too."

"The passengers here stocked their clothing and helmet hats for the tropics. We were quite busy and didn't see any missionary work."

"In Shanghai we saw something of our work and the Y. M. C. A. I've been very well pleased with the Y. M. C. A. work in all the places I've visited. In Shanghai they have over 4,000 members. From Hong Kong we went to Manila. The reception we had there by the Americans was enjoyed. Gov. Woods gave a reception also. He is the right man for the place. We called on Bishop Locke and found him well and very busy. He was former pastor of the Methodist church in Los Angeles."

"Calcutta is very interesting. The English have a wonderful public building, and the wonderful 'Victoria' building, is a model structure."

"It is hard to realize that we are to be in Jerusalem tomorrow. We hope to get some mail tomorrow and from now on we will be getting our mail oftener. I am very anxious to know how you are getting along."

MONTROSELEGION WILL BUY CLUBHOUSE SITE*Verdugo Hills Post to Ask Quotations on Lots for New Homes

Wednesday night the regular weekly meeting of the Verdugo Hills Post No. 288, American Legion, was given over practically to the business of discussing the purchase of a suitable lot for the new home of the post.

All residents of the valley who think they have a lot suitable for this purpose they care to dispose of are requested to submit an offer of price and terms of sale to Harry Conner of Montrose or A. E. Baron, adjutant of Verdugo Hills post No. 288, whose address is Montrose, Calif. The buddies need a centrally located, reasonably priced lot.

Dance on May 10

Comrade J. Benton Wirt, chairman of the dance committee, announced the third of the dances given by the Legion will take place Saturday night, May 10, at the La Crescenta school auditorium. Several interesting features are to be added, promising an enjoyable evening.

George H. Nelson, who is scoutmaster of Verdugo Hills Post Troop of Boy Scouts, announced the next Boy Scout meeting is to be held at the Montrose schoolhouse tonight, Friday, May 2. All boys of the valley who wish to join this particular troop are requested to be on hand tonight at 7:30 at Montrose schoolhouse.

On Wednesday night, May 7, the Buddies will have an open meeting, when they will receive all their friends who care to accept their cordial invitation. This includes members of the fair sex also. An exceptionally interesting program will be presented by Comrades Geo. N. Nelson and R. I. Lowe, who have charge of the evening program.

LA CRESCENTAOFFERINGS HELP
BUILDING FUNDS*Easter Collections Include Many Donations From Church Friends

The regular meeting of the Woman's Guild of St. Luke of the Mountains was held at the La Crescenta hotel. In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. C. A. Haskins, Mrs. Seymour Thomas gave a statement of the Easter week subscriptions to the building fund of the church, of which Seymour Thomas is treasurer. Collections on Easter Sunday amounted to $179.

Colonel Fowler of La Crescenta and Plinridge gave a check for $500; John Steven McGroarty also gave a check. This particular gift is very dear to residents of La Crescenta as Mr. McGroarty has been through such troublous times. Other pledges and checks brought up the Easter week subscriptions to $1500, making about $4375.

Box for Mission

An interesting letter from St. Timothy's Mission at Tanana was read by the president, Mrs. Mary B. Darrow. St. Timothy's mission will receive the garments made by the guild members during Lent. Mrs. Darrow also gave a description of the packing and shipping of the articles as she saw it being done at the receiving station in St. James Paris house, Pasadena.

Mrs. Mark Collins proposed a guild picnic to be held some time during the summer months in Brookside park, when the women could sew on the articles for the bazaar which it is planned to hold some time in the fall after the sessions are resumed. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Seymour Thomas, the first Thursday in June, when a silver offering will be taken to purchase articles to be made during the summer vacation by members of the bazaar.

SOCIAL EVENTSSuccessful Tea

The May day tea yesterday afternoon at the Guild hall of St. Mark's Episcopal church, with the Guild women as hostesses, proved most successful and added a goodly sum to the fund for kitchen equipment.

Mrs. B. O. Holbrook and her committee, Mesdames F. S. Card, George Neil, Harvey Jenkins, Philip K. Kemp, Gaultrapp and J. L. McOmber had carried out a clever decorative scheme. A miniature May pole with pastel shaded streamers and a profusion of spring flowers were features.

Tea was served from 2 till 5 o'clock and at 3 o'clock an entertainment program was given.

Margaret Lou Cory gave a clever reading, "Getting Ready for the Ball"; Miss Ina Fletcher danced a modern minuet, accompanied by Miss Avis Young, and Miss Young gave a piano solo.

May Day Affair

Madrigal club members were May day guests of Mrs. H. V. Henry, who was hostess at a most enjoyable informal affair at her home, 142 Harvey drive.

Every member of the club was present and each one displayed her artistic ability in making a May basket. Mrs. Paul Hoffman, president of the club, was awarded first prize for the most artistic basket. Second prize went to Mrs. Hill, and Mrs. C. L. Viereck was awarded the consolation prize.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The $500,000 suit of Helene Jesmer, former Polles beauty, against Morton F. Plant, 23-year-old heir to $15,000,000, was settled out of court today. The terms of the settlement were kept confidential but one report said Miss Jesmer's attorneys had refused an offer of $75,000 by Plant.

MAJOR OPERATION

Mrs. C. W. Kirk of 121 1/2 North Louise street underwent a major surgery operation at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital this morning.

The reputed man-eating tiger shark does not exist.

Honor Mrs. Hazen

A significant event in the history of Glendale chapter, Order of Eastern Star, U. D., is to take place Saturday night when there will be a banquet and meeting honoring Maude Mae Hazen, district deputy, who will pay her official visit to the recently organized lodge.

Elaborate plans are being made for the dinner and meeting. Mrs. Hermine Hudson, worthy matron, will preside.

ENTERTAIN COUSINS

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Starkweather of 414 East Wilson avenue had as guests last night their cousins, Mrs. Rhoda Manning and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Guernon of Los Angeles.

Building Record For Month April Reaches Record With Total Of $626,754

After trailing the record set by 1923 for three months, the current year finally came into its own during April, when the value of building permits issued exceeded those of the corresponding month last year by $43,756. Permits issued last month totaled $626,754, as against $582,998 in 1923.

Although this mark is below that of 1922, when $1,022,699 was registered, it is over $200,000 in excess of 1921. An interesting feature of the record is the fact that it is more than twenty times as much as the building permits amounted to just a decade ago, in 1914, when the total given out was $30,995.

April's record is the lowest of any month of the current year, but this is to be expected, says Building Superintendent Vandewater. Building naturally slackens off as the hot weather approaches, only to pick up again in the fall. He regards conditions in Glendale along building lines as very satisfactory, and looks for Glendale to stand well up in the list of southern California municipalities when the monthly record is published. The permits for April:

THOUSANDS SEEK DIAMOND FIELDS

Reports of Huge Finds in New African Territory Starts Mad Race

JOHANNESBURG, May 1.—Scenes and stories reminiscent of the first diamond rushes are reported from Stompeles, where a large diamond field was recently discovered.

Ten thousand diggers have already arrived, it is stated, while hundreds more, including many blacks, are streaming in from all sides daily.

The nearest town is 20 miles away, and everybody is living on the bare veldt. Whole families are said to be stowed away in miscellaneous vehicles, with sacking for roofing.

Enteric trouble is said to be rife, the food conditions being deplorable, even water having to be bought from vendors.

MOTOR FANS SEE PACKARD DISPLAY

Dixie Packard Company Is Host at Formal Opening Of Firm's New Home

The formal opening of the new home of the Dixie Motor company, at 1129-1131 South Brand boulevard last night, drew crowds of friends and well wishers of the firm who dropped in to see the new 1924 lines of Packard and Gray cars, which the Dixie Motor Company handles in this territory.

The showroom was elaborately decorated for the occasion, with handsome baskets of flowers, the gifts of friends of the firm, placed in profusion all around the room. Business associates, banks and members of the Glendale Automobile Dealers' association sent flowers and congratulations to W. H. Daniel at the start of his occupancy in his new premises, and the throngs that visited the establishment showed a keen interest in the cars that were on display.

Chassis Is Shown

One of the most striking exhibits in the Packard line was the chassis of the Single Six touring car that was shown with the upholstery removed to demonstrate the manner in which the Packard quality goes all the way through the car, and the excellence of the chassis won high praise from all who inspected it. Another car that compelled attention was the Packard Eight seven-passenger touring car with four wheel brakes.

During the evening the Glendale Community band rendered a well-balanced program of music and refreshments were served the guests.

Mr. Daniel and his sales manager, George A. Whitaker, expressed themselves as being immensely gratified at the welcome extended to them by the motoring enthusiasts who filled their spacious showroom and service department last night, and a number of prospects for both Packard and Gray cars were listed by the sales force who were on duty.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JACKIE'S FACE

Mrs. Bow Wow, the lady dog, trotted over to Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one day.

"Uncle Wiggily, I am in great trouble," barked Mrs. Bow Wow. "Dear me! That's too bad!" said the rabbit gentleman kindly. "I hope Mr. Bow Wow isn't ill. Or perhaps it is Jackie and Peetie. Have those puppy dogs been doing something wrong?"

"Well, it is about Jackie that I came to see you," said the lady dog. "I don't know that you would exactly call it bad, though it makes me feel sad."

"Goodness, what is it?" asked Uncle Wiggily, and he grew so excited that his pink nose twinkled upside down. "Can't Jackie wag his tail, or wrinkle his nose?" asked the rabbit.

"No, it isn't quite as sad as that," went on Mrs. Bow Wow, sitting down on the front steps. "But Jackie won't wash his face!"

"He won't wash his face?" cried Mr. Longears.

"No!" sighed the lady dog. "Jackie is very careless. He gets up in the morning, dabs a little water on his paws, but he never washes his face or ears. Time and again he comes to the table with a dirty face, and his father or I must send him up to the bath room again."

"That is a very sad state of affairs," said the bunny uncle.

"That's why I came over to see you," went on Mrs. Bow Wow. "I thought perhaps you would think of a way to make Jackie think to wash his face."

"Hum! I'll try," promised Uncle Wiggily as he gently waved his whiskers to and fro. "Yes, I'll try. I'll come to supper over to your kennel house this evening, Mrs. Bow Wow. Just before I come, I'll tell you and Mr. Bow Wow just what to do and say. It will be as well not to have Peetie there while we teach Jackie a little lesson."

"I'll send Peetie over to his grandmother's to supper," said Mrs. Bow Wow. "At our house will be just you, Mr. Bow Wow and myself, with Jackie."

"Very well," said Uncle Wiggily, and then he told her what he was going to do.

Came evening and Uncle Wiggily, dressed in his best, for he was company, hopped over the fields, and through the woods to the kennel house of the dog family. Peetie had been sent to his grandmother's, and Jackie was the only little doggie boy who was to sit at the table.

"Come to supper, Uncle Wiggily! Come, Mr. Bow Wow, and after we eat we'll go to the movies," called Mrs. Bow Wow.

Jackie, who was playing out in front in the dirt, making a base ball bat, heard his mother's voice. Dropping that bat the little doggie boy hurried into the house, dabbled his paws in the water a moment, and without putting a drop on his face, he trotted into the dining room and sat himself down in his chair.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" barked Jackie.

To his surprise the rabbit gentleman did not answer him—did not even look at him, no more than as if Jackie wasn't there!

"This is queer," thought Jackie. "I guess he didn't hear me. Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" he barked again.

But just then Mrs. Bow Wow said:

"Help yourself to the strawberry shortcake, Uncle Wiggily, and then pass it to Mr. Bow Wow."

"Thank you," spoke the rabbit gentleman, "I will." Now Jackie sat between Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Bow Wow, but the rabbit gentleman, after helping himself to shortcake, passed the plate right in front of the doggie boy without offering to give him any. And Mr. Bow Wow took some cake

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" barked Jackie.

ting near you, is it, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Mr. Bow Wow.

"It can't be—with such a dirty face," said Mrs. Bow Wow.

"Oh, yes, mother! I'm Jackie!" howled the little doggie boy. "It's only dirt on my face. Wait—I'll show you. I'll go wash my face." And up to the bath room he rushed. And when he came back to the table with his face shining clean his mother said:

"Why, Jackie! Where have you been? We had to start supper without you! Please don't be late again. Here's Uncle Wiggily come to see you."

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily," barked Jackie.

"Oh, hello, Jackie," laughed the rabbit gentleman. And, so they were all happy. And if the tooth brush doesn't go sailing down the bath tub in the soap dish, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Peetie's pickles.

YOUNG VICTIM

That cancer does seriously attack the human organism before the age of 40, in spite of the belief to the contrary, was shown recently by the death of Lois May Stuart, 16 years old, of Sandpoint, Idaho, from a malignant form of cancer. Medical and surgical eyes were, as a result, focused on the case. It was pointed out that her sarcoma resulted from an injury.

Cops Earn Vacations

JOHN BRITTON, Chief of Police of Charlestown, W. Va., grants his men holidays of various lengths when they capture crooks in his bailiwick.

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., May 1.—Policemen of this city say that no police chief in the United States is as popular with his men as John Britton.

Chief Britton has his own idea of how to keep the force constantly on the job.

Every time they ring the bell in law enforcement he rewards them something like this:

For one housebreaker, 10 days' vacation.

For one holdup man, 30 days' vacation.

For one bandit or bank robber, 60 days' vacation.

"Keep a gun handy for housebreakers," is his advice to citizens, and he also urges that they be prompt and accurate in giving information concerning crimes or attempted crimes.

THE GLENDALE

Jack Hoxie in "The Galloping Ace" shows at the Glendale theatre today and Saturday, a Universal attraction, directed by Robert North Bradbury of Glendale, who made this star's popular picture, "The Red Warning."

It relates the adventures of a chap who lost his job in a marble quarry because his honesty interfered with certain exploits of the owner and who later figured in the checking of one of the biggest "hard rock" steals of the West's industrial history. The owner of the marble quarry held a lien on a neighboring ranch owned by a beautiful girl. The man desired both the girl and large deposits of black marble which her land contained.

Hoxie is supported by Margaret Morris, Frank Rice, Robert McKim and others. Robert North Bradbury, who made "The Red Warning," directed.

THE GATEWAY

George Fitzmaurice's great First National production, "The Eternal City," made from Sir Hall Caine's novel of that name, continues at the Gateway theatre today and Saturday. The director took the entire cast to Rome for the filming, those who went including Barbara La Marr, Lionel Barrymore, Bert Lytell, Richard Bennett and Montague Love.

The plot is poignant and dramatic, centering about the love affair of Donna Roma and David Rossi, the parts taken by Miss La Marr and Mr. Lytell. Childhood lovers, they are separated at the beginning of the war, when David answers the call of the colors and goes to the front. Word reaches her that his entire regiment has been wiped out, and, to stifle her great grief, she accepts the offer of a designing nobleman to establish her in a studio in Rome.

"WOMEN MUST GRASP AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY," SAYS LEAGUE LEADER

To get the best international co-operation, women of the United States must grasp the intent of our foreign policy and use the ballot to back the best policy, in the opinion of Miss Ruth Morgan of New York City, third vice president of the National League of Women Voters, and head of its department of International Cooperation to Prevent War.

The 22,000,000 women voters, many of whom will cast their first ballot in a national election this November, face a grave obligation and a great opportunity, Miss Morgan believes. "If women are to realize their ideals of world co-operation, they cannot shirk their responsibility of a clear understanding of not only national issues, but international questions, Miss Morgan contends.

Politically-minded women in the cities already have been awakened to the need of a better understanding of foreign affairs, according to Miss Morgan. Their awakening may be likened, she says, to the old European Renaissance of learning, when the classical revival of learning and art was at its height in the fifteenth century.

"It may be true," Miss Morgan says, "that today we do not learn Latin, Greek and the classics, and

CLERK KEEPS JOB

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—Like Gopher Prairie, San Francisco has a Main street and is proud of it.

In fact, Californians are so proud of San Francisco's Main street that the state is now in the throes of a bitter battle to determine whether the name of the avenue shall endure or pass with the going of the famous forty-niners.

Representatives of the Native Sons of the Golden West and the California Pioneers have already filed protests with the city supervisors against a plan to change the name of Main street.

"The Native Sons are strongly opposed to changing the names of streets bearing the names of famous Californians," declares Charles L. McEwen, grand director of the California society. "We have every reason to believe that San Francisco's Main street was so called, not because it was a 'main' street, but because it was named to honor Charles Main, San Francisco pioneer and a member of the first vigilante committee."

According to officials of various pioneers' organizations, Charles Main, after whom it is claimed, the street was called, was author of San Francisco's first sanitary measures and builder of the first steamboat used on the Sacramento river.

San Francisco's memorial museum has just become owner of a little black book.

It is the city's first directory and would fit into the hip pocket of any modern gentleman.

The volume was published in 1850. In spite of the fact that it cost $5 to get one's name in the book, it contains 1000 names of San Francisco residents.

According to George H. Barron, curator of the museum, the book was issued shortly after the name of this city was changed from Yerba Buena to San Francisco. At that time—about 1848—there were 200 men in the city proper, which boasted a newspaper known as the Star.

The editor of the Star was evidently a far-seeing person. He wrote one day of having had a dream that gold was discovered in California. He saw a great city where now is San Francisco, with a great university at its doors.

Enter the "steepjehill." She is Mrs. Golda De Sella, who is completing the painting of a 150-foot smokestack in San Francisco.

Her chief assistant is her husband, William. He was an ironworker, and Mrs. De Sella made a steepjehill of him.

"It's all just in a day's work," said the female steepjehill, descending from a high scaffolding. "I took the work up during the war, and I like it. I never get nervous, and there is nothing to get dizzy about."

Mrs. De Sella has assisted in painting some of the highest smokestacks in the country, and she never yields to her husband when a tough job is assigned them.

Somewhere in the place where whales' heaven is located the ghost of an enormous Arctic whale is assuring his spouting fellow shades that it doesn't pay to stray too far from home.

In the meantime his mammoth body, rich in whalebone and oil, rocks sleepily on the beach near Monterey.

Never before in the history of whale fishing has a member of this tribe been caught south of the fifty-fifth parallel of latitude, it is said.

Captain M. Swanson, of the whaler Traveler, sighted the rare wanderer near Golden Gate almost within sight of rose-bowered apartment houses topping San Francisco's sunny hills.

Without delay a deadly bomb was fired, and the big prize was soon beached.

CONFESSIONS OF A BABY

We Are Not Small Adults

I'm seven months old now, and my development is nothing short of marvelous. When I think of the manifold physical and mental stunts that I can do, I smile, as I look back upon the time of my youth—that period from my birth until I was two months old, or so.

Do you know, mamas, that when we babies are first born we know practically nothing? We have no reflexes, and some reflex activities of our internal and external muscles and our internal organs. Of course, our breathing and our heart beating and our digestion and all such things, are sort of reflexes. We are really just precious little masses of soft, warm, living human tissues—thoughtless, wishless, willless, and oh, how helpless we are!

While we are not born with our eyes closed, like puppies and kittens, we really can't see at birth. The center of vision in the optic nerve does not begin to develop until after birth, so we are not prepared to see. And then, as sight does come to us, we see but dimly. We can tell the difference between light and darkness, and we are very apt to turn our eyes and perhaps our heads towards light, within the first week.

We are like the little plants in our love and instinct for light. Any, sometimes babies that are reared in a room with the light or a window always in the same position, will turn their little heads so often towards that light that they get a little habit of turning their heads that way at all times, and their mamas think there is something the matter with their necks.

A little more about our seeing. Of course, we can't really see at first for a long while, because seeing is not just a matter of having the eyes open and the vision center developed. It requires a great deal of muscular adjustment of the eyeballs and of the lenses of the eyes, and of course we babies can't control these adjustments at first. That is why we so often look cross-eyed. For a long while, all we can see are blurs of light and dark.

I have told you in some of my other stories Doctor has printed for you about the points in which we differ from our adults, and a little about our nervous system. Now I must tell you more about that. When we are first born, and for some time afterward, there is connection between the cells of our brains and the rest of the nervous system. That is why we have no conscious control. But as we grow older, our brain cells grow and send out little roots which connect up with the rest of the nervous system. Then we begin to get control.

For a long while, mamas, the nerves of our bodies and our brains are in an imperfect and undeveloped stage. They are "unripe." Most of your nerves have sheaths or coverings on them, but all of our nerves are uncovered. That is one of the reasons our nervous systems are unstable, mamas. These little sheaths or coverings around our nerves are mainly completed by the time we are seven years old, but it takes several years more before our nervous systems are as stable as those of our adults. All this time they are in a plastic, growing stage, and very impressionable.

Now, the whole thing I'm trying to get at in these last two articles, mamas, is this: We babies and children are not little adults; nor must we be treated as little adults. Our nervous systems and all our organs being in such a changeable state, we require much more consideration and more care. You must remember this, mamas—we do not inherit what we are going to be, nearly so much as we are going to mold what we are going to be; and we are going to mold ourselves from the patterns around us.

Isn't it jolly that I have such wonderful patterns for my development?

Au revoir, mamas dears!

Women Aid Convention

Women are playing an important part in planning the Republican national convention. Above (left to right) MRS. GEORGE BARNETT, MRS. P. L. DeVOIST, MRS. JOSEPH B. KEALING, MRS. NETTIE M. CLAPP. Below—MRS. ALVIN T. HERT, LOUISE DODSON, MRS. FLORENCE COLLINS PORTER.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 2.—Responsibility for victory or defeat in the coming presidential campaign is going to be nearly equal between men and women. This is true of both parties.

Already Republican women are hard at work with their part of the task mapped out by the national organization. In important conferences of committees held here women have been more conspicuous than ever before.

Among the women who have already come into prominence through their pre-convention work are Mrs. Florence Collins Porter of Los Angeles, Mrs. Louise M.

Dodson of Iowa, Mrs. Nettie M. Clapp of Cleveland, who is chairman of the committee of women making the local arrangements for the convention; Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Kentucky, Mrs. George Barnett, wife of the former commandant of the Marine Corps; Mrs. Joseph B. Kealing of Indianapolis, Mrs. P. L. DeVoist of Duluth.

Both men and women voters of twenty-nine states are represented in the committee on policies and platforms of the Republicans in women. They are: Mrs. H. H. Foster, Arkansas; Mrs. Anna Woolcott Valle, Colorado; Mrs.

Samuel O. Prentice, Connecticut; Mrs. W. K. duPont, Delaware; Mrs. Anna M. Marcotte, Florida; Mrs. Portia Von Cannon, Idaho; Miss Dorothy Cunningham, Indiana; Mrs. Louise M. Dodson, Iowa; Mrs. R. R. Beauty Chats

By EDNA KENT FORBES

THE TAILORED GIRL

There is a certain art in wearing a tailored suit, and every woman should learn it. It is certainly the most becoming style to the average American girl, and it is the most economical way to dress smartly. We have such latitude nowadays in the cut of our tailored suits that every type of figure can be dressed becomingly. We take our tailored suits sensibly, we make them in plain styles and dark colors for ordinary wear and introduce as well a variety of color and design so they can be worn for anything short of an evening party.

But you must learn how to wear your tailored suit and also how to choose it. You want fairly well cut shoulders, and a skirt that is slim and straight but with fullness introduced by means of concealed pleats or an overlapping front. If your skirt has not this necessary fullness it will bag at the knees and at the back and be very ugly. The length must be determined by yourself, eight or nine inches from the floor is an average of convenience and becomingness. Sleeves must be sufficiently long to come well down to the hand, and if the hand is large they should have cuffs or should be fairly full.

An average rule is that the older the woman or the stouter her figure the longer the coat should be. Some of the new fashions show coats almost to the hem of skirt, so long indeed that they can be used as separate coats over a fancy silk frock. The very young slim girl looks charming in an Eton jacket or any kind of short, flaring coat whereas the woman of 45 would look ridiculous in that style. An average is a coat 27 to 30 inches long, belted if the figure is slim, otherwise not.

The tailored suit should be the most expensive single item in a woman's wardrobe. Money here is well invested.

Mrs. B: "Pork Fruit Cake: Put three-quarters of a pound of fat salt pork through your food chopper, then pour one cup of boiling water over the chopped pork; add one cup of granulated sugar, two cups of molasses, one-half cup of sweet milk, one cup each of seedless raisins and dried currants, then stir in the following dry mixture: five cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking soda and one-half teaspoon of all kinds of ground spices (cinnamon, nutmeg, clove, allspice, etcetera). Bake in two loaf-cake pans for two hours in a slow oven. This kind of cake will keep for a long time—in fact, it is better in a week or two than when first made."

Mrs. H: "Pork Cake with Eggs: Put one pound of fat salt pork through a food chopper, add to it one cup of boiling water, and let the mixture boil for two minutes. Then remove from fire, add one cup of molasses, two cups of sugar, three beaten eggs, two teaspoons of baking soda, one pound of raisins chopped fine, and one half teaspoon each of your favorite spices such as cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg, cloves. Last add enough flour to make a stiff batter. Bake in three greased loaf-cake pans for about two hours in a slow oven."

M. H.: "My Eggless Pork Cake: Chop one pound of fat salt pork fine and pour over it one pint of boiling water, then stir in three cups of brown sugar, one pound of seeded raisins, eight cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking soda dissolved in a very little water, one teaspoon of ground cinnamon and one-half teaspoon each of ground cloves and nutmeg. Bake in two loaf-cake pans in a slow oven for about two hours. This makes a rich, dark fruit cake which tastes as if several eggs had been used."

Mrs. A. J.: "Two-Egg Pork Cake: Over one cup of finely chopped fat salt pork, pour one cup of boiling water; add at once one cup of raisins, one cup of molasses, one cup of sugar, one cup of sweet milk, two eggs, four cups of flour, one-half teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of baking soda, and spices to suit taste. Bake in a greased loaf-cake pan for about two hours in a slow oven."

When all else fails, Kellogg's Bran relieves constipation. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic cases, or your grocer will return your money. For Kellogg's is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

Doctors recommend Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. They know it brings results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It rids the system of those dangerous poisons which lead to other diseases.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. You will like the wonderful, nut-like flavor. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Try it in the recipes given on every package. Kellogg's Bran is served by leading hotels and clubs. Sold by all grocers.

OAKLAND DROPS THIRD GAME OF SERIES TO CATS

Penner Outpitches Former Teammate Kunz; Tigers
Win by 4-2 Score

By R. C. FRANKLIN
For Southern News Service.
LOS ANGELES, May 2.—
"Pinches" Kunz and Ken Penner, both former members of the Sacramento club of the Coast League, hooked up in a pitchers' battle yesterday afternoon at Washington park, with the former hurling for Oakland and the latter for Vernon. Penner got the better of the decision by the count of 4 to 2, and the Tigers took the lead in the Oak series, two to one.

Eight hits were registered off
Ken and nine off Pinches. Penner did not issue a free pass during the game, but Kunz was not so lucky and the Tiger rally was started in the fifth with a walk, and Vernon scored three runs, enough to sew up the contest.

ANGELS 2, SEALS 3

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—The Seals managed to remain in a tie for first place in the league standing by defeating the Angels here yesterday, 3 to 2, in a tight pitchers' battle between Shea and
"Bim" Myers.

Shea allowed only two hits, but these two developed into full-fledged runs. Jacobs, first man up in the fourth, singled, and Wally Hood followed with a home run. That ended the Angels' scoring.

Myers pitched a good game, but was not as tight in the pinches as Shea. Krug used three pinch hitters in the ninth inning, but Shea struck two of them out and the other popped to Kilduff.

NEW YORK TEAMS AT HEAD OF LIST

Cleveland Indians Furnish Biggest Upset in Early Season Playing

By JOHN B. FOSTER
By special leased wire to The Evening News.
Copyright 1924, The Evening News.
NEW YORK, May 2.—The big league baseball seasons enter the month of May with one significant fact outstanding. That is, that none of the other fourteen clubs in the two leagues have been able to head the New York titleholders.
Week-end results are the most satisfactory in comparing ball teams, so far as the championship race is concerned. And the weekend results of April point as they did in 1923, to the winners of the 1924 championship.

The races will grow keener as the weather settles and as pitchers survive the test of meeting different batters. Yet, under the conditions that exist this year, the April indicator is more like a compass than a vacillating weather vane.

Indians All Wrong
Week-ends of April in 1923 had New York and Detroit tied for first place in the American. This year there is the same relative standing between them. It doesn't matter much whether they are tied for first or second. The fact is evident that they have been setting the pace.

The biggest upset, as compared with last season, has been the Cleveland Indians. Last year they were dancing at the top, some of the time leading the league. This season they have been foundering drearily in the second division. The most improvement in the American has been made by Chicago, a team that was in the dumps all through April, 1923, but which has been in the light this year from the start.

Davidson Set Down by Racing Contest Board

"Three hundred dollars, or 30 days," is the verdict of the International Motor Contest Association in the case of the speed fans versus Arthur, alias Fuzzy, Davidson, charged with rough riding, obstructing traffic and contempt of court, all such crimes having been committed at Ascot speedway last Sunday in the Bozzani stakes.

Although big hearted Referee
Charlie Keppen and other Ascot officials listened to the alibi of Davidson and the good words spoken in favor of Davidson by Ralph De Palma and decided to reinstate the youthful Indianapolis star, Chairman Corey of the
I. M. C. A. contest board wired yesterday afternoon that nothing short of a stiff fine will serve the purpose.

"The drivers must be taught to respect officials and rules," said Corey in the telegram, "and without considering the merits of the charge of foul driving, Davidson was guilty of most flagrant disrespect of the starter. Do not permit him to start inside of 30 days unless he pays a fine of $300." Davidson announced last night that he will pay the fine by tomorrow, and that his conduct in the future will be beyond reproach. The money will go into the disabled drivers and mechanics' fund.

SUPPORT NEEDED ON FLOOD BONDS

City Engineer Dupuy Gives Outline of Cause for Issue to Carry

Strong support for the flood control and water conservation bond issue to be voted on at the primary election May 6 is urged by Ben S. Dupuy, city engineer.

"I do not believe the people of Glendale realize the importance of this project," he said this morning. "Included in the bond issue is an appropriation of $225,000 for the Sycamore Canyon and a like amount for the Verdugo Wash. In addition to this sum the issue contemplates a further expenditure of something like $200,000 on the headwaters of the Verdugo, which makes the total available for projects in the vicinity of Glendale approximately $700,000."

"Of this amount Glendale will be taxed on the basis of $150,000, according to our assessed valuation. This means, that if the bond issue carries, we will have something like $500,000 appropriated for flood control in this part of the country which otherwise would not be available. "It is certain that these two washes cannot remain as they are now. If the county does not do the work, the city will have to, at great expense. This is our opportunity to look after the water menace in a manner consistent with the danger, and it behooves every voter to go the polls next Tuesday and vote "yes" on the bond proposition."

NOTED PRODUCER TO APPEAR HERE

May Valentine Will Direct
'Robin Hood' Showing at Chautauqua Week

Miss May Valentine, noted producer of "Robin Hood," who visited Glendale ahead of the Elliston-White Chautauqua and addressed the meeting of the local committee Monday night of this week, when J. R. Ellison was present, has returned to Chicago, leaving yesterday, states her father, C. A. Valentine of Glendale.

Miss Valentine will return to produce "Robin Hood" in Glendale on the closing day of this year's Chautauqua, bringing with her a company of her own so capable as to assure a masterly presentation of the beautiful Reginald DeKoven opera.

Glendale Booster Many will remember Miss May Valentine as the conductor of "Robin Hood" at the Mason Opera house in Los Angeles, three seasons back. Hers is a rich musical experience, her father points out. A number of years ago she was DeKoven's musical assistant in New York City, at the Opera Comique.

She is very partial to Glendale and hopes to make it her home. In all her tours, Mrs. Valentine says, she never fails to boost this city.

Sunset Club Will Observe Birthday Of A. H. Cleveland

The Glendale Evening News Sunset club members are going to have a real pleasure to look forward to during the week of May 25, for on Thursday, May 29, they are to be entertained at a birthday party for A. H. Cleveland, given by his daughter, Mrs. Elsie Stowe, at their home, 363 West Lomita avenue.

Mr. Cleveland, who was born May 29, 1837, in Alleghany county, New York, is to be 87 years of age and his fellow members of the Sunset club will join with him in the celebration of this anniversary.

Dumovitch Sent Back; Angels Sell Crandall

Oscar Reichow, business manager of the Angels, announced yesterday that Nick Dumovitch, pitcher, sold to the Chicago Cubs at the close of the 1923 season, was being returned to Los Angeles under option and subject to twenty-four-hour recall. Nick left Chicago last night, and will be here for the opening game of the Angel-Tiger series Tuesday.

Dumovitch was one of the best fingers in the Coast league in 1922, but never seemed to be able to get a start in Chicago. He stated here this spring that the climate there bothered him. With the return of Dumovitch, Reichow announced the sale of Arnold Crandall, "Doc's" brother, to Lincoln of the Western league. Arnold pitched for the Glendale White Sox last winter, but did not show much stuff, and it was predicted by the fans here that he would have a hard time to make a berth on a Pacific Coast league team.

Several Grid Stars Graduate This Year

Although the Dynamiters lost several of their best men this year, Coach Hayhurst expects to develop another winning football team "Breezy" Elliot, who was the outstanding football star in the Pacific Coast prep circles last year, is among those who will be lost by graduation, as is "Cereal" Walton, halfback, and Marion Morrison, tackle. At the new high there is an extra field of the regulation size, where the grid aspirants will be able to hold practice without interfering with the baseball teams.

FRIENDS OF OLD DAYS MEET AGAIN

Minister Is Guest of Couple
He Married in Iowa
Half Century Ago

Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Kendrick of Pasadena had the pleasure Wednesday of meeting a group of old Iowa friends at the Glendale home of a couple Mr. Kendrick married fifty-one years ago. Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Norton, at 801 East Wilson avenue.

Mrs. Norton had arranged a sumptuous chicken dinner, which was enjoyed by the Kendricks and Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Doud, Mrs. J. W. Lambert and daughter, Mrs. R. V. Yont of Monterey Park; Mrs. Vivian Hanemeyer and son Russell of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Norton of Glendale.

Mr. Kendrick, Mr. Norton and Mr. Doud were formerly associated in the Methodist conference in Iowa and their friendship has been a happy association during their residence in California.

P.N. Practical Front CORSETS

Youthlike Body-Beauty Rests in the Hollow of Your Hand

"What exquisite hands! How young she is! But no; she shows her age too plainly in her figure!"

How often have you heard or said that very thing about some other woman? How many a girlish hand is anything but fair in its treatment of the figure in its care! Small consolation in a smooth, soft, slender hand if the body lines betray the evidence of vanished youth.

In P. N. Practical Front Corsets the buoyancy of youth renews itself each day. The inner elastic vest clasps pliantly but securely round the body, placing the front steels right at the center, unlike the off-center steels of the ordinary front-lace corset. No riding up; no prodding of the bust. Lacing of the outer flaps is swift and easy, over flat hooks (shoe-wise), with no elusive eyelets to be threaded. The daily lacing so essential to preserving the corset lines becomes effortless—the affair of a moment.

Unconsciousness of body dwells in P. N. Practical Front Corsets. Complete comfort and a sense of physical well-being are yours today, tomorrow, every hour and everywhere. Thus, through intelligent corsetry, can that slender hand of yours guard the priceless treasure of your youth.

At Hatz's, where right corseting is viewed as vital, you may select your suitable style, in a variety of fabrics, at $5 upward to $12.
